

Desires No Change in Operation Procedure

STABILIZATION MEASURES HAVE GIVEN MILLIONS TO FARMERS, REPORT

Washington, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—The federal farm board will stand upon its record, the senate agriculture committee was told today.

It desires no change in the law under which it operates. It believes its operations have greatly benefited the farmer.

These operations of the board's annual report, given to the committee, revealed loans to farmers cooperatives and purchases of wheat and cotton as follows:

Wheat—Total purchases of $29,641,052 bushels for $270,204,503.78 of which 189,656,187 bushels remained on hand November 1.

Cotton—Total purchase of 1,319,809 bales for $107,533,246 of which 1,310,789 bales remained on hand November 1.

The full story of the oft-times spectacular operations of the federal farm board was revealed at a dramatic session of the senate agriculture committee.

Stone told Chairman McNary that sales of wheat abroad had been at an average price of 53 to 55 cents a bushel but that it would be impossible to figure the extent of farm board losses on wheat until it all has been sold. He explained that the board was not bound beyond next July 1 by its pledge to limit domestic wheat sales to 5,000,000 bushels a month. But if that pledge were extended and foreign sales remained at present volume, the board would not be able to dispose of its wheat by 1934, he said.

The board still has between $50,000,000 and $65,000,000 of its $500,000,000 revolving fund. At the end of the last fiscal year, June 30, 1931, the board had $59,977,608.32 in cash. Since then the final $100,000,000 of the authorized $500,000,000 has been made available and most of it has been committed in merchandizing and commodity loans. The board's accounts show $789,863.26 written off to delinquent notes and accounts in litigation or suspended. This amount is regarded as a loss, the board refusing to compute stabilization accounts until the transactions are completed.

Against the loss of less than $1,000,000 the board shows accrued interest receivable of $1,175,875.70.

The board has loaned $160,148,762.05 for wheat stabilization and $74,953,881.54 for cotton stabilization, making a total of $235,102,643.59 invested in stabilization efforts. The Grain Stabilization corporation also owes $83,000,000 to commercial and intermediate credit banks. The Cotton Stabilization corporation owes $35,707,991.96 to commercial and other banks.

Defends Stabilization Methods

As evidence of the growth in cooperative marketing, the report said the Farmers National Grain corporation, serving 250,000 farmers, handled approximately three times the amount handled by cooperatives before the act was passed. The cotton cooperatives, with combined memberships of more than 160,000, handled 2,442,091 bales in 1930-31 compared to 825,786 bales handled by cooperatives in 1927-28. Similar large gains were made by wool and livestock cooperatives.

Defending the stabilization operations, the report said the board's activities "added millions of dollars to farmers' incomes and gave farmers and business organizations a breathing spell in which to readjust to a lower level of prices."

GAMBLE ON PROPOSED WATERWAY BONDS MAY JEOPARDIZE OTHER AND REGULAR CONGRESS APPROPRIATIONS—WEAVER

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—The Mississippi Valley association today viewed the economic prosperity of agriculture and industry as dependent in large part on the result of the organization's campaign for a $500,000,000 federal bond issue, designed to complete the nation's inland waterways system in five years.

After a sharp debate the association yesterday approved a report of the board of directors urging such a bond issue, and again today will vote on a resolution embodying details of the plan to be urged on congress. Former Governor Arthur J. Weaver, of Nebraska, president of the Missouri River Navigation association, and affiliate, led the opposition. He argued that "a gamble on a bond issue at this time might jeopardize regular congressional appropriations."

Indication of water rates was stressed in addresses today. L. Wade Childress, president of the Mississippi Valley Barge Line company said the problem was paramount "because rates were and are made without relation to the cost of service, an unsound system."

Barge lines, he said, must regulate "their conduct and practices and discriminatory practices, or congress will do the job for them."

MULLIN WILL SEEK TO SUBSTANTIATE CHARGES AGAINST WAREHOUSE BOARD

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 24.—State Senator Gerald T. Mullin today announced that a score of grain growers and country elevator owners will be called to prove that the Farmers Union Terminal association engaged in unfair practices and charged northwest grain producers exorbitant service and handling rates.

Mullin will seek to show that the state railroad and warehouse commission was guilty of malfeasance and neglect of duty for allowing the alleged practices. The hearing against the three commissioners, C. J. Laurisch, Frank Matson and O. P. B. Jacobson, is being conducted before Governor Floyd B. Olson.

The first direct attack on the terminal association was made by J. L. Huber, Minneapolis grain man and former employee of the Farmers National Grain corporation.

Huber testified that following receipt of complaints from farmers they were receiving less than the market price for their grain. Thatcher devised a plan whereby it would be made to appear that the prices paid were those set following offering of the grain on the Minneapolis and Duluth trading floors.

George A. Pederson, manager of the Farmers Independent Elevator Co., Ivanhoe, testified that six cars of grain his company sent to the terminal company last fall received less than the market price. After he sent the terminal company a complaint his cooperative was given an additional $341 and the mistake blamed on a typographical error.

OFFICERS OF N. P., G. N. TAKE WAGE CUT

WILL NOT EFFECT THOSE DRAWING UNDER $300

St. Paul, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Salaries of Great Northern officers and the clerical forces will be reduced from 10 to 20 per cent, effective Dec. 1, Ralph Budd, president, announced today. Persons receiving less than $300 a month will not be affected by the cut for the time being, Budd said.

The Northern Pacific recently made similar wage reductions ranging from 10 to 25 per cent.

Budd said that the reductions would be determined on a pro-rata basis to the 20 per cent maximum on the largest salaries.

SKIES TO CLEAR UP BUT COLD WAVE WILL CONTINUE IN N. W.

TEMPERATURE DROPS MORE THAN 20 DEGREES IN 9 HOURS

A winter blizzard swept eastward today into central Minnesota bringing a steady drop in temperatures of more than 20 degrees in nine hours.

The temperature moved downward from the 43 degree mark last night to around the 20 degree mark today. The mercury sank to the 16 degree mark at Moorhead while temperatures around 10 above were reported from North Dakota.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—The crushed body of Norman Potter, 36, was found in his shattered airplane 14 miles southwest of Salt Lake City airport today. Potter crashed yesterday almost within sight of the airport. He was en route from Oakland, Calif.

Although the skies will clear up for tonight and tomorrow the cold wave will continue, the United States weather bureau said. The present storm will move eastward over the Great Lakes.

Search parties today sought Norman Potter, last reported 37 miles from Salt Lake City and missing 24 hours. Eleven passengers and five members of a train crew were rescued from a Denver Rio Grande Western passenger train stalled in huge drifts in Cumbres pass near the New Mexico-Colorado border. Scores of automobiles and buses were stranded in the storm.

In Salida, Colo., scores of small buildings collapsed under the weight of the wet snow. The storm was expected to bring an end to an unseasonal heat wave in the east where 73 degrees was reported in New York City and other readings in the 70's were common.

Wahpeton, N. D., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—A Northwest Airways mail and passenger plane was ordered to remain at Wahpeton today as weather reports indicated a blizzard raging around Fargo, N. D., made flying dangerous. The plane left St. Paul at 8 a. m. today and was headed for Pembina, N. D. Eastward schedules of the airways company were being maintained as usual, it was learned.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Numerous villages were without light or power today after a blizzard brought six inches of snow severed wire connections and handicapped transportation.

Schools were closed at Battle Lake, near here. Crews of linemen worked to restore power by tonight.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Searchers reported finding the body of Mary Snow, 13, who was trapped by the storm while riding a horse to school in Carter county, Mont.

After the harrowing experience of being marooned atop Cumbres pass for 30 hours, 11 passengers and a crew of five on a Denver and Rio Grande Western train, arrived in Alamosa at 10:15 a. m. and were fed.

special taxes to provide jobs for every unemployed person in the state.

He urged that income taxes be increased sufficiently to bring in $12,600,000 of a $16,750,000 unemployment relief program.

Minimum rates the governor suggested ranged from one per cent on net incomes below $1,000 and 30 per cent on incomes of $100,000 or more. To raise the balance of the fund, La Follette recommended a corporation surtax of one per cent, expected to produce $1,500,000, and a permanent chain store tax to yield $1,500,000 annually, and a gift tax.

He also urged adoption of an unemployment insurance plan, in the event the state's industry does not put one into effect.

La Follette made it evident that he would veto any attempt to slash salaries of public employees.

The governor said Wisconsin has 130,000 persons, completely out of work, 50,000 more with only partial employment, and 100,000 farmers in financial distress.

"We must be able to show that proper and justified service is being rendered for expenditures of public money," Olson said. "Let us use the same care and judgment in expending the public's money as we would expect another person to use in handling our money."

Defeat St. Cloud Bond Issue for "Made Work"

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Voters of St. Cloud defeated a $25,000 bond issue for a "made work" program for unemployment relief during the coming winter by a three to one vote, it was announced today.

Although voting was light the poll showed that more than two thirds of the citizens who voted were not in favor of the bond issue plan. The issue would have financed a program to give work to all who were laid off from work during the winter.

A charity fund drive was started today, however, with a goal of $25,000.

Arrives to Plead in Behalf of Mooney

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Seeking a pardon for Tom Mooney, whose imprisonment for the Preparedness day bombing in 1916 has been a constant source of agitation for 15 years, Mayor James J. Walker of New York came here today.

"I want one thing to be made clear right now," the mayor said, "and that is that my good friend, California's great governor, is the boss of this thing. He is running the show. There is no political significance to my trip and I do not intend to permit anything political or social to interfere with the case on hand. We are here only in the interest of Tom Mooney."

ASSETS OF CLOSED BANK REVEAL NEW CLUE TO MASSACRE

INVESTIGATION OF ST. VALENTINE'S DAY SLAYINGS REOPENED

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—An incident of Judge Michael Feinberg's search for assets of a closed south side bank today gave fresh impetus to the long stagnant investigation of the St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929 in which seven gangsters were slain.

Ballistics experts will study two sub-machine guns discovered in the apartment of Terry Druggan, "public safety enemy," and former suspect in the garage slaying which virtually wiped out the once powerful George "Bugs" Moran gang.

The machine guns were found in Druggan's apartment by court deputies. The deputies were making inventory of the apartment furnishings which will be sold at auction in part payment of a note Druggan owes the defunct bank.

The coroner's inquest in the St. Valentine's day killings which marked introduction of wholesale murder in Chicago gang warfare was closed less than a week ago as a formality to clear the records of Dr. Herman Bundesen, retiring coroner.

Immediately upon hearing the guns had been found the new coroner, Frank J. Walsh, applied for permission to make ballistics tests. He said if tests showed the seven men to have been killed with the guns the inquest would be reopened.

During the early investigation of the massacre in which virtually all of the leaders of the Moran gang were killed, Druggan was under suspicion.

Dutcher Tells of Congress' Problems

Faced by grave problems and with the lower branch now controlled by the Democrats the new session of Congress that convenes on Dec. 7 promises to be the most colorful since World War days.

The picture has changed, the scenes have shifted; new leaders from the party that had remained submerged since Woodrow Wilson's administration now take positions of tremendous power.

In the White House sits a Republican president who faces one branch of Congress that is Democratic and another that is nearly so.

Delving deeply into this most interesting situation, Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for The Daily Dispatch, has written a series of six interpretative articles on the big issues that confront the new Congress and the background that lies behind them.

You will want to read every one of Rodney Dutcher's timely and exclusive articles. Local readers will find them only in The Daily Dispatch, starting Friday.

Six Children Overcome by Escaping Gas From Exhaust Pipe Heater

Victims Tell Story of What Happened Inside School Bus

Phyllis Jeanette Holzman who was able to talk today gave the story of what occurred inside the bus.

Smelled Fumes

"I could smell dirty fumes in the bus soon after leaving the school. I took my coat off and held it over my nose and the other kids did the same. I screamed and wanted to get out, saying 'let me out, let me out.' Lulu Rose, standing at the door wouldn't let me out or stop the bus. I was sitting over the heater and it got too hot so I moved over to the other seat with the other children. The last I remember we were seated there holding our coats over our noses," she told her parents, adding "phooey; daddy, I'll never ride in that bus again."

Looking at his daughter's shoes, Holzman said the bottom of them were covered with tar. He believed the tar got there by the melting of roofing paper which had been used as a covering to the floor of the bus.

Sees Children Fall Down

Lulu Rose Hendrickson stated that she did not believe anything was serious until she saw the children falling down. Holzman said after talking to her last night as he took her home. She was the least affected by the gas. "I started to scream at the Gull River bridge from the rear of the bus where I stood keeping the door open. I started pounding and then my father looked back. I can't remember any more," Holzman said the girl told him.

He called to Harvey Lively, farmer nearby, to telephone for help. Lively notified Dr. R. A. Beise and Holzman who brought the children to the hospital here where they regained consciousness about an hour later.

The victims were: Lulu Rose, 12, Clarice, 10, Alberta, 9, Phyllis, 7, and Doris, 6, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson and Phyllis Jeanette Holzman, 7.

RULES STATE BANKS MAY SUBSCRIBE TO NAT'L CREDIT POOL

SUBSCRIPTIONS, HOWEVER, WILL BE SUBJECT TO RULINGS OF BANKING UNIT

St. Paul, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—State banks of Minnesota may legally subscribe to stock in the National Credit Corporation, organized at the request of President Hoover to free frozen bank assets, it was announced today.

All such subscriptions, however, will be subject to rulings deemed advisable by the state banking department, State Commissioner of Banking J. N. Peyton said today.

An opinion from Attorney General Henry N. Benson placed the Credit Corporation on the legal investment list for state banks in Minnesota.

In connection with investments in the Credit Corporation, Peyton pointed out that the state legislature has limited the risk of loss of state banks on any one transaction to 15 per cent of its capital and surplus and that while the National Credit Corporation technically meets the requirements of the state banking laws, it makes banks liable to the corporation for possible contingent liabilities.

DEPARTMENTS MUST KEEP 1932 BUDGETS DOWN—MRS. WITTICH

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Jean W. Wittich, state budget commissioner, today warned a conference of state department heads that 1932 budgets must be kept down.

"There is an almost hysterical demand on the part of Minnesota's taxpayers for tax-reduction," Mrs. Wittich warned. "Administration house-keeping must be gotten down to 'hard pan' to prevent any waste and still provide the best service possible."

Nearly every state department head as well as deputies were present at the conference. Governor Floyd B. Olson requested the department heads for their co-operation in planning next year's budgets.

"We must be able to show that proper and justified service is being rendered for expenditures of public money," Olson said. "Let us use the same care and judgment in expending the public's money as we would expect another person to use in handling our money."

O'Brien Named Chairman of Tariff Commission

Washington, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—President Hoover today announced the appointment of Robert Lincoln O'Brien of Boston as chairman of the tariff commission.

Arrives to Plead in Behalf of Mooney

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Seeking a pardon for Tom Mooney, whose imprisonment for the Preparedness day bombing in 1916 has been a constant source of agitation for 15 years, Mayor James J. Walker of New York came here today.

"I want one thing to be made clear right now," the mayor said, "and that is that my good friend, California's great governor, is the boss of this thing. He is running the show. There is no political significance to my trip and I do not intend to permit anything political or social to interfere with the case on hand. We are here only in the interest of Tom Mooney."

ASSETS OF CLOSED BANK REVEAL NEW CLUE TO MASSACRE

INVESTIGATION OF ST. VALENTINE'S DAY SLAYINGS REOPENED

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—An incident of Judge Michael Feinberg's search for assets of a closed south side bank today gave fresh impetus to the long stagnant investigation of the St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929 in which seven gangsters were slain.

Ballistics experts will study two sub-machine guns discovered in the apartment of Terry Druggan, "public safety enemy," and former suspect in the garage slaying which virtually wiped out the once powerful George "Bugs" Moran gang.

The machine guns were found in Druggan's apartment by court deputies. The deputies were making inventory of the apartment furnishings which will be sold at auction in part payment of a note Druggan owes the defunct bank.

The coroner's inquest in the St. Valentine's day killings which marked introduction of wholesale murder in Chicago gang warfare was closed less than a week ago as a formality to clear the records of Dr. Herman Bundesen, retiring coroner.

Immediately upon hearing the guns had been found the new coroner, Frank J. Walsh, applied for permission to make ballistics tests. He said if tests showed the seven men to have been killed with the guns the inquest would be reopened.

During the early investigation of the massacre in which virtually all of the leaders of the Moran gang were killed, Druggan was under suspicion.

Dutcher Tells of Congress Problems

Faced by grave problems and with the lower branch now controlled by the Democrats the new session of Congress that convenes on Dec. 7 promises to be the most colorful since World War days.

The picture has changed, the scenes have shifted; new leaders from the party that had remained submerged since Woodrow Wilson's administration now take positions of tremendous power. In the White House sits a Republican president who faces one branch of Congress that is Democratic and another that is nearly so.

Deiving deeply into this most interesting situation, Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for The Daily Dispatch, has written a series of six interpretative articles on the big issues that confront the new Congress and the background that lies behind them.

You will want to read every one of Rodney Dutcher's timely and exclusive articles. Local readers will find them only in The Daily Dispatch, starting Friday.

Six Children Overcome by Escaping Gas From Exhaust Pipe Heater

Victims Tell Story of What Happened Inside School Bus

Phyllis Jeanette Holzman who was able to talk today gave the story of what occurred inside the bus.

Smelled Fumes

"I could smell dirty fumes in the bus soon after leaving the school. I took my coat off and held it over my nose and the other kids did the same. I screamed and wanted to get out, saying 'let me out, let me out.' Lulu Rose, standing at the door wouldn't let me out or stop the bus. I was sitting over the heater and it got too hot so I moved over to the other seat with the other children. The last I remember we were seated there holding our coats over our noses," she told her parents, adding "phooey; daddy, I'll never ride in that bus again."

Looking at his daughter's shoes, Holzman said the bottom of them were covered with tar. He believed the tar got there by the melting of roofing paper which had been used as a covering to the floor of the bus.

Sees Children Fall Down

Lulu Rose Hendrickson stated that she did not believe anything was serious until she saw the children falling down. Holzman said after talking to her last night as he took her home. She was the least affected by the gas. "I started to scream at the Gull River bridge from the rear of the bus where I stood keeping the door open. I started pounding and then my father looked back. I can't remember any more," Holzman said the girl told him.

RULES STATE BANKS MAY SUBSCRIBE TO NAT'L CREDIT POOL

SUBSCRIPTIONS, HOWEVER, WILL BE SUBJECT TO RULINGS OF BANKING UNIT

St. Paul, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—State banks of Minnesota may legally subscribe to stock in the National Credit Corporation, organized at the request of President Hoover to free frozen bank assets, it was announced today.

All such subscriptions, however, will be subject to rulings deemed advisable by the state banking department, State Commissioner of Banking J. N. Peyton said today.

An opinion from Attorney General Henry N. Benson placed the Credit Corporation on its legal investment list for state banks in Minnesota.

In connection with investments in the Credit Corporation, Peyton pointed out that the state legislature has limited the risk of loss of state banks on any one transaction to 15 per cent of its capital and surplus and that while the National Credit Corporation technically meets the requirements of the state banking laws, it makes banks liable to the corporation for possible contingent liabilities.

FIGHTING FLARES ANEW IN ORIENT AS CHINA REJECTS LEAGUE'S PROPOSAL FOR WITHDRAWAL OF JAP TROOPS FROM AREA

Kirin, Manchuria, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Fighting was reported today in Tun-hua, 80 miles east of here. Japanese volunteers were reinforcing the troops. Japanese and Chinese forces engaged in another battle 20 miles southwest of Mukden today.

The fighting appeared to be preliminary to a southward push by the Japanese.

Motorized infantry reinforcements were sent from Mukden by the Japanese. The fighting was continuing at 2 p. m.

Five thousand Chinese irregulars at Takantze, 30 miles east of Mukden in the direction of Dairen, organized today and hoisted flags.

Paris, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—The League of Nations council drafted a compromise resolution on Manchuria today, seeking to establish a commission of inquiry on the dispute and at the same time to meet China's demands for immediate evacuation of Japanese troops.

The resolution proved unsatisfactory to China, however, and the deadlock appeared unbroken. An authentic Chinese source said Nanking's reply to the resolution was negative, and that China stood on the repeated declarations of Dr. Alfred Sze that immediate Japanese evacuation must precede an inquiry.

Ambassador Charles G. Dawes communicated the resolution to Washington. Late in the day Dawes conferred with Ambassador Tsueno Matsudaira of Japan.

Ormandy Named Director of Symphony Orchestras

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Eugene Ormandy, prominent conductor of symphony orchestras, today was engaged as conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Carlyle Scott, manager, announced.

Ormandy replaces Henri Verbruggen, who because of illness will be unable to conduct the rest of the season. Ormandy was an immediate success with the Minneapolis orchestra as guest conductor during the last two weeks.

Ormandy came to this country from Budapest shortly after the world war as a soloist and concert master of the Capitol Theater Symphony Orchestra of New York. He was soon elevated to conductor.

cause he had influence on the school board.

"I was told he bought the truck for $30," Holzman said.

Hendrickson Tells Story

Interviewed at the St. Joseph's hospital by Daily Dispatch representatives last night Hendrickson related circumstances of the near fatality.

"I had driven about a mile and a quarter when I heard a faint tapping on the window. I looked around to see Lulu Rose fall from sight. I stopped the bus and opened the compartment door. All the children were on the floor unconscious. I then brought them out to the fresh air and called for help," he said.

Hendrickson said he knew immediately what had happened as he had had a previous experience with carbon monoxide poisoning. He related that he was overcome by gas while cleaning a storage tank at Velva, N. D., in 1919. Hendrickson said he has four other children other than those riding in the bus. These are too young to attend school, being Albert, 5; John, 3; Betty, 2; and Paul, 1 year. The Hendricksons reside nine miles west of Brainerd, their address being Brainerd, Route 4. The father is 48 years old.

Screams "Let Me Out"

Returning to consciousness the Holzman girl kept screaming, "Let me out, let me out," the father said.

"I am hopeful for a complete recovery of all the children. We are guarding against contractions of pneumonia. The girls will be kept in the hospital until they are out of danger. The two suffering from burns will remain in the hospital longer," Dr. Beise said.

While the near tragedy occurred in Cass county, Harold, Molstad, superintendent of schools for Crow Wing county urged common school district boards to maintain strict observance over their transportation equipment.

Urges Closer Supervision

"The responsibility in a case of this kind, I would believe, rests with the school board. The directors have supervision over the equipment. In the case of consolidated schools inspectors from the state department are required to examine the buses and rule as to their safety. The drivers are also bonded and in many cases insurance is carried by them to protect their charges," he said.

The superintendent of schools said that the only outside check of school buses in common school districts is that made by Minnesota highway patrol officers who are empowered to order buses and cars on highways to meet traffic regulations as to safety.

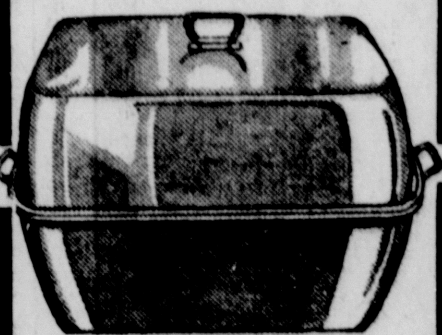

Molstad said that there have been instances where 11 and 12 ride to and from school in touring cars.

"This near fatality should prove an alarming example and should cause the school boards in common school district to examine carefully all vehicles of transportation as to the safety of children in their charge," Molstad said.

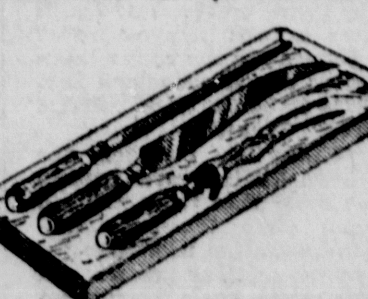

Members of the school board of district No. 1, Cass county are: "Pete" Peterson, Earl LaPorte, Mrs. Charles VanSickle.

Sac County, Iowa, raises more popcorn than any other county in the United States and probably more than any other similar area in the world.

POSTPONE PALACE BENEFIT TWO WEEKS TO LIGHTEN LOAD

COMMITTEE ACTS ON ADVISABILITY NOT TO OVERDO SOLICITATION NOW

Preferring to hold the benefit matinee at the Palace theatre at a time when citizens are not crowded with functions and general appeal solicitations, officials of the Brainerd Community Relief Fund Committee and Sam Gruesser, theatre manager, today agreed to postpone the benefit for two weeks. The benefit was originally intended to be held at the Palace Wednesday afternoon of this week.

Simultaneously the announcement was made that tickets already purchased should be kept by holders as they will entitle admission to the program. No definite date for the holding of the matinee was fixed today.

"Tickets will continue to be on sale for the benefit. The date of the show will be fixed in a few days. Gruesser said.

All money received from the sale of tickets will be used for Brainerd community relief.

cause he had influence on the school board.

"I was told he bought the truck for $30," Holzman said.

Hendrickson Tells Story
Interviewed at the St. Joseph's hospital by Daily Dispatch representatives last night Hendrickson related circumstances of the near fatality.

"I had driven about a mile and a quarter when I heard a faint tapping on the window. I looked around to see Lulu Rose fall from sight. I stopped the bus and opened the compartment door. All the children were on the floor unconscious. I then brought them out to the fresh air and called for help," he said.

Hendrickson said he knew immediately what had happened as he had had a previous experience with carbon monoxide poisoning. He related that he was overcome by gas while cleaning a storage tank at Velva, N. D., in 1919. Hendrickson said he has four other children other than those riding in the bus. These are too young to attend school, being Albert, 5; John, 3; Betty, 2; and Paul, 1 year. The Hendricksons reside nine miles west of Brainerd, their address being Brainerd, Route 4. The father is 48 years old.

Screams "Let Me Out"
Returning to consciousness the Holzman girl kept screaming, "Let me out, let me out," the father said.

"I am hopeful for a complete recovery of all the children. We are guarding against contractions of pneumonia. The girls will be kept in the hospital until they are out of danger. The two suffering from burns will remain in the hospital longer," Dr. Beise said.

While the near tragedy occurred in Cass county, Harold Molstad, superintendent of schools for Crow Wing county urged common school district boards to maintain strict observance over their transportation equipment.

Urges Closer Supervision
"The responsibility in a case of this kind, I would believe, rests with the school board. The directors have supervision over the equipment. In the case of consolidated schools inspectors from the state department are required to examine the buses and rules as to their safety. The drivers are also bonded and in many cases insurance is carried by them to protect their charges," he said.

The superintendent of schools said that the only outside check of school buses in common school districts is that made by Minnesota highway patrol officers who are empowered to order buses and cars on highways to meet traffic regulations as to safety.

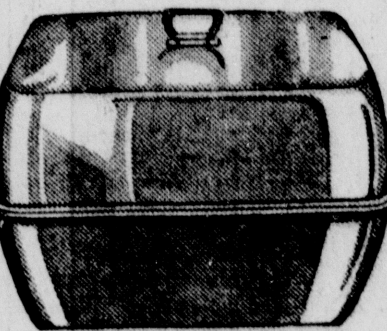

Molstad said that there have been instances where 11 and 12 ride to and from school in touring cars.

"This near fatality should prove an alarming example and should cause the school boards in common school district to examine carefully all vehicles of transportation as to the safety of children in their charge," Molstad said.

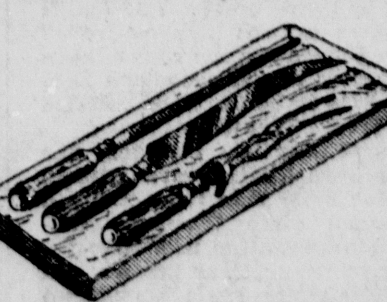

Members of the school board of district No. 1, Cass county are: "Pete" Peterson, Earl LaPorte, Mrs. Charles VanSickle.

Sac County, Iowa, raises more popcorn than any other county in the United States and probably more than any other similar area in the world.

Water was shut off from the Staples city mains for a short time on Saturday evening, when one of the water gates broke. Workmen from the city were inspecting the hydrants, getting them ready for the winter months, and at the intersection of Sixth street and Second avenue had been compelled to dig down to the pipe when the break came, the water was shut off at the well and the repairs made.

POSTPONE PALACE BENEFIT TWO WEEKS TO LIGHTEN LOAD

COMMITTEE ACTS ON ADVISABILITY NOT TO OVERDO SOLICITATION NOW.

Preferring to hold the benefit matinee at the Palace theatre at a time when citizens are not crowded with functions and general appeal solicitations, officials of the Brainerd Community Relief Fund Committee and Sam Gruener, theatre manager, today agreed to postpone the benefit for two weeks. The benefit was originally intended to be held at the Palace Wednesday afternoon of this week.

Simultaneously the announcement was made that tickets already purchased should be kept by holders as they will entitle admission to the program. No definite date for the holding of the matinee was fixed today.

Tickets will continue to be on sale for the benefit. The date of the show will be fixed in a few days. Gruener said.

All money received from the sale of tickets will be used for Brainerd community relief.

50c

Commencing Dec. 1st

For the month passed the undersigned Barbers of Brainerd have made a sincere effort to contribute their bit in reducing expenses for the people of Brainerd.

During the month passed we have cut hair for 25c and we have learned that we cannot stay in business at that price.

Therefore on December 1st we go back to 50c. We trust the people of Brainerd will realize that we have made a sincere effort to reduce prices, and only when we realized that it is business suicide on our part have we abandoned the low price.

New Plan by Makers of Vicks Cuts the High Cost of Colds

Saves Money, Time and Health by Better "Control-of-Colds"

Test of Plan Offered Brainerd Druggists on Unlimited Guarantee of Satisfactory Results.

The high cost of colds are more than ever a problem this winter. In every family, therefore, it is news of peculiar interest that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have developed a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. A Plan to reduce the number, the severity and the costs of colds.

A New Vicks Product

The Plan is made possible by a new preparation—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in "preventing" colds, it is a companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern external way of "treating" colds. The two aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible further reduction of the burdensome family "Colds-Tax."

Trial Offer to VapoRub Users

Use of this Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in your home will mean fewer colds—less severe colds. It will mean cutting your high costs of cold troubles—a saving in money, loss of time and health. To say nothing of the discomforts of colds and the severe ills that often follow colds. Test the Plan for yourself—without risk. Get a bottle of the new Vicks Drops today. Use it with Vicks VapoRub as directed. Unless results are entirely satisfactory, your druggist will refund the price of the Nose Drops—and the test will have cost you nothing.

Here, briefly, is the Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds."

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Use Vicks Nose Drops—a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhalation smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are over-tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—Nature's warning that you are actually "catching cold."

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours—any time, any place. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops, actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body resistance to disease at a time when it is most needed. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice—Adv.

"How good is it?"

That's it!

ABOUT anything and everything they buy, smart shoppers like to ask one question—"How good is it?"

Chesterfield welcomes smokers who buy their cigarettes that way.

OUR tobacco buyers are smart shoppers, too. They "shop" for the ripest, mildest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows. And they won't take anything else.

"How good" are Chesterfields? Well, consider their blending.

Blended and cross-blended...not merely mixed together. Blended first by crops and countries...then cross-blended again and again...to produce a flavor and aroma that are Chesterfield's alone.

That's how we get that better taste...that's why Chesterfields are milder. Even the paper they're rolled in is the whitest, cleanest and purest that money can buy.

And the package...clean, bright, fresh-looking...see how easily it opens, yet how tightly it's sealed.

OPEN a package. Note the aroma...delicious foretaste of pleasure ahead.

Now—pull out a Chesterfield...round, firm, well-filled.

"HOW good is it?" Light up...then you tell us!

Milder? Right! Taste better? You bet they do! They're pure, too—and they certainly do satisfy!

Good...they've got to be good! There's value here. We know, because we put it in...and you'll smoke it out with every one you light.

WINTRY BLASTS HIT BRAINERD AREA; NO SERIOUS DAMAGES

SNOWFALL NOT HEAVY ENOUGH TO SEND PLOWS OUT ON HIGHWAYS HERE

Braierd and county citizens changed to winter apparel today as the first significant blasts of winter swept down on this section, sending the temperature down to 22 degrees above zero for a low of the season.

The storm did not block any of the roads or disrupt municipally owned utilities here. The City Water and Light Department reported that all electric light wires and water mains rode the storm well while the Northwestern Bell Telephone reported few complaints of wire trouble.

Trains and buses were running on time.

The Minnesota Highway Department office here reported that the snowfall was not heavy enough to warrant the sending out of snowplows. All roads were passable. Scrapers were used on gravel highways. Workers were dispatched today to hustle the placing of snowfencing at sections of state trunk highways needing protection.

While the snowfall was recorded at an inch the amount of moisture that fell was .35 inch.

ASSURES NORTH OF REPRESENTATION IN HOUSE MANAGEMENT

HARMONY REIGNS AS ILLINOIS REPRESENTATIVE IS CONCEDED FLOOR LEADER POST

Washington, Nov. 24.—(UP)—Northern Democrats were assured a voice in management of the House of Representatives today and harmony seemed to prevail once more in the party's ranks.

Leaders dealt out the important post of floor leader to the wing of the party north of the Mason and Dixon line and thus checked the growing dissension at the prospect of domination by southern Democrats.

Rainey's Election Conceded
This job seems sure to go to Rep. Henry T. Rainey, 73-year-old Illinois member who has served in the House for 26 years. He is an outspoken liberal.

Rainey's election generally was conceded when the leading southern contender for the post, Rep. John McDuffie, Alabama, now Democratic whip, withdrew in the interest of harmony and to avoid sectional strife.

Rainey today claimed 133 of the 217 Democratic votes, excluding those of other candidates. There are still two other candidates in the race, Rep. John Rankin, Mississippi, and Rep. John J. O'Connor, Tammany member from New York.

The compromise was arranged by Rep. John N. Garner, Texas, prospective speaker, who was moved by the necessity of harmony preparatory to the Herculean effort the Democrats are planning to capture the presidency next year. He was regarded as responsible for McDuffie's withdrawal.

Rainey Favored by Smith
Rainey's election will give recognition in management of the house at this crucial time to the section of the country from which come Alfred E. Smith, still titular leader of the party, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of

New York, one of its leading candidates for the presidential nomination, and Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee.

Harmony among Democrats was further assured today when Rep. Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, announced he is not and never was a candidate for Democratic floor leader, but would take the chairmanship of the important house appropriations committee, for which he is in line, if Democrats organize.

Lutheran Ladies' Aid at Deerwood Elects

Deerwood—The Salem Lutheran ladies aid met Thursday with a good attendance. It had been moved at the last meeting to have election of officers a month early and have a meeting in December. The officers elected were: Mrs. Christ Skone, president; Mrs. E. C. Hendrickson, vice president; Mrs. Edwin Peterson, treasurer; Mrs. E. G. Blomen, secretary. A lunch was served by the members. Mrs. E. G. Blomen and daughter Betty were in Brainerd Thursday. Betty had some dental work done.

The new I. O. O. F. hall is being rapidly put in order. The partitions are removed, the floor has been taken up, and the ceiling supports are all in place, most of the work being donated by the members. Wm. Ringhand is in charge of the work with an advisory committee of Douglas Archibald, R. R. Graham and the trustees.

Fred Wingquist, the insurance man from Town Line Lake was in town today. Fred is being spoken of as a candidate for county commissioner. Several of the local firemen attended the Cuyuna Range Fire Association meeting at Ironton Thursday night.

Police Congress

Paris — Criminals in this city laid low recently when police from all over the world held a congress here with a view of setting up an international clearing house for tracing criminals. The congress passed a resolution to unify identification systems and to carry on an interchange of photographs by radio to make the world tougher for crooks.

ASSURES NORTH OF REPRESENTATION IN HOUSE MANAGEMENT

HARMONY REIGNS AS ILLINOIS REPRESENTATIVE IS CONCEDED FLOOR LEADER POST

Washington, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Northern Democrats were assured a voice in management of the House of Representatives today and harmony seemed to prevail once more in the party's ranks.

Leaders dealt out the important post of floor leader to the wing of the party north of the Mason and Dixon line and thus checked the growing dissension at the prospect of domination by southern Democrats.

Rainey's Election Conceded
This job seems sure to go to Rep. Henry T. Rainey, 73-year-old Illinois member who has served in the House for 26 years. He is an outspoken liberal.

Rainey's election generally was conceded when the leading southern contender for the post, Rep. John McDuffie, Alabama, now Democratic whip, withdrew in the interest of harmony and to avoid sectional strife.

Rainey today claimed 133 of the 217 Democratic votes, excluding those of other candidates. There are still two other candidates in the race, Rep. John Rankin, Mississippi, and Rep. John J. O'Connor, Tammany member from New York.

The compromise was arranged by Rep. John N. Garner, Texas, prospective speaker, who was moved by the necessity of harmony preparatory to the Herculean effort the Democrats are planning to capture the presidency next year. He was regarded as responsible for McDuffie's withdrawal.

Rainey Favored by Smith
Rainey's election will give recognition in management of the house at this crucial time to the section of the country from which come Alfred E. Smith, still titular leader of the party, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of

New York, one of its leading candidates for the presidential nomination, and Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee.

Harmony among Democrats was further assured today when Rep. Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, announced he is not and never was a candidate for Democratic floor leader, but would take the chairmanship of the important house appropriations committee, for which he is in line, if Democrats organize.

Lutheran Ladies' Aid at Deerwood Elects

Deerwood—The Salem Lutheran ladies aid met Thursday with a good attendance. It had been moved at the last meeting to have election of officers a month early and have a meeting in December. The officers elected were: Mrs. Christ Skone, president; Mrs. E. C. Hendrickson, vice president; Mrs. Edwin Peterson, treasurer; Mrs. E. G. Blomen, secretary. A lunch was served by the members.

Mrs. E. G. Blomen and daughter Betty were in Brainerd Thursday. Betty had some dental work done.

The new I. O. O. F. hall is being rapidly put in order. The partitions are removed, the floor has been taken up, and the ceiling supports are all in place, most of the work being donated by the members. Wm. Ringhand is in charge of the work with an advisory committee of Douglas Archibald, R. R. Graham and the trustees.

Fred Wingquist, the insurance man from Town Line Lake was in town today. Fred is being spoken of as a candidate for county commissioner. Several of the local firemen attended the Cuyuna Range Fire Association meeting at Ironton Thursday night.

Police Congress

Paris — Criminals in this city laid low recently when police from all over the world held a congress here with a view of setting up an international clearing house for tracing criminals. The congress passed a resolution to unify identification systems and to carry on an interchange of photographs by radio to make the world tougher for crooks.

VIEW WITH ALARM ATTEMPT TO SLASH CO. NURSE BUDGET

Minnesota citizens are viewing with alarm the proposal of county commissioners, in a few Minnesota counties, to do away with their most economical bulwark against distress and disease, the county nurse.

The county nurse is an essential aid to public economy.

County commissioners, having only economy in the spending of public funds in view, could justifiably afford to hire two county nurses this year instead of one.

The foregoing are high spots in an emphatic bulletin issued today by the Minnesota Public Health Association against the proposal of these Minnesota counties to lead off their 1931 depression economy programs by dropping their county nurses.

"With the records of any county where such an unfortunate move is contemplated, an itemized account could be made to present to well intentioned but mistaken county commissioners, showing actual saving in dollars and cents far above her salary, made by the county nurse," says the bulletin.

"It is the nurse who arranges for removal of defects that might otherwise make county charges for life of indigent children. It is the nurse who reports the new case of serious communicable disease in schools that the doctor himself might never have an opportunity to see and so nips in the bud a costly, devastating epidemic of disease in her county. It is the nurse who goes to the home of the mother who cannot afford any other nursing treatment, who helps her to give the puny baby a proper start in life, who saves the mother herself to keep a family together that might otherwise be presented to the county for expensive protection and care until the entire family grew to adult life."

Such incidents are cited in the bulletin as mere ordinary routine of the county nurse's life. They happen in good times, as well as bad, winter, and summer. They might be multiplied endlessly and the saving in suffering, and unhappiness they make is beyond all calculation.

First Wedding Held in St. Agnes Church, Walker

Walker — The first wedding to be held in the St. Agnes Catholic church was solemnized at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, November 19, when Ruth E. Grindall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grindall of Walker and F. Sylvester Neises, son of Mrs. M. Neises of Wadena, were united in marriage by Father Spain.

The bride's sister, Ann, was maid of honor and Earl Brassard was best man. Mrs. M. J. Merickel and Mrs. L. J. Nelson, both of Wadena, were the bride's attendants.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and a veil, and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. She came down the aisle to the flower banked altar on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage.

Elin Carlson sang "At Dawning," Odin Naustvold and Wilfred Nelson sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal couple left shortly after dinner for a honeymoon trip to Winnipeg and vicinity.

The bride has lived in Walker all her life and was graduated from the local high school and from the Bemidji normal.

The groom has been here for some time and recently purchased the interests of his brother, Henry Neises, in the store operated by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Neises plan to make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Grindall, for the winter at least.

Staples Boy Attending State Horticulture Meet

Staples—Gordon Ellis, a student at the Staples high school, is one of the twenty-five lucky boys to attend the meeting of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society being held this week at St. Paul.

Gordon won two first places in the 4-H garden projects throughout the county this year. He won first on his garden project and first in his paper telling how he planned and cared for his garden. Gordon is enrolled in the agricultural department of the Staples school.

Senior Class Aids in Pine River Benefit

Pine River—A show, "The Mystery of St. Joseph's Isle," sponsored by The United

Picture Industry, is to be given today and Sunday, the proceeds of which are to go to the local community fund. The campaign for the ticket sale of this show was put on by the senior class of the Pine River high school. The members made a house to house canvass; also the different clubs and organizations that are meeting in town and in the surrounding country this week are being entertained by short programs by the different members of the senior class after which the tickets are sold. The highest ticket sellers are at present the Misses Marion Bloomfield, Eleanor Kyllingstad and Edna Branes.

Mrs. Herbert Kline and Miss Margaret Skow, daughters of Morris G. Skow of Pine River who were both taken to St. Joseph Hospital to undergo operations, are reported improving.

Mrs. Olive Dahl, postmistress of Pine River, entertained the Bridge Club at her home Thursday. Mrs. L. W. Isensee received head prize and Mrs. L. Field received second prize.

VIEW WITH ALARM
ATTEMPT TO SLASH
CO. NURSE BUDGET

Minnesota citizens are viewing with alarm the proposal of county commissioners, in a few Minnesota counties, to do away with their most economical bulwark against distress and disease, the county nurse.

The county nurse is an essential aid to public economy.

County commissioners, having only economy in the spending of public funds in view, could justifiably afford to hire two county nurses this year instead of one.

The foregoing are high spots in an emphatic bulletin issued today by the Minnesota Public Health Association against the proposal of these Minnesota counties to lead off their 1931 depression economy programs by dropping their county nurses.

"With the records of any county where such an unfortunate move is contemplated, an itemized account could be made to present to well intentioned but mistaken county commissioners, showing actual saving in dollars and cents far above her salary, made by the county nurse," says the bulletin.

"It is the nurse who arranges for removal of defects that might otherwise make county charges for life of indigent children. It is the nurse who reports the new case of serious communicable disease in schools that the doctor himself might never have an opportunity to see and so nips in the bud a costly, devastating epidemic of disease in her county. It is the nurse who goes to the home of the mother who cannot afford any other nursing treatment, who helps her to give the puny baby a proper start in life, who saves the mother herself to keep a family together that might otherwise be presented to the county for expensive protection and care until the entire family grew to adult life."

Such incidents are cited in the bulletin as mere ordinary routine of the county nurse's life. They happen in good times, as well as bad, winter, and summer. They might be multiplied endlessly and the saving in suffering, and unhappiness they make is beyond all calculation.

First Wedding Held in St. Agnes Church, Walker

Walker — The first wedding to be held in the St. Agnes Catholic church was solemnized at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, November 19, when Ruth E. Grindall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grindall of Walker and F. Sylvester Neises, son of Mrs. M. Neises of Wadena, were united in marriage by Father Spain.

The bride's sister, Ann, was maid of honor and Earl Brassard was best man. Mrs. M. J. Merickel and Mrs. L. J. Nelson, both of Wadena, were the bride's attendants.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and a veil, and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. She came down the aisle to the flower banked altar on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage.

Elin Carlson sang "At Dawning," Odin Naustvold and Wilfred Nelson sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal couple left shortly after dinner for a honeymoon trip to Winnipeg and vicinity.

The bride has lived in Walker all her life and was graduated from the local high school and from the Bemidji normal.

The groom has been here for some time and recently purchased the interests of his brother, Henry Neises, in the store operated by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Neises plan to make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Grindall, for the winter at least.

Quinn Parker Grows Beard to Lead Panthers in Battle Against Dave Arthurs' Squad at Nisswa

The much tooted Thanksgiving Day Handicap, not a horse race, but a real honest to goodness football game, will be staged at Nisswa Thursday at 2:30 P. M. between Dave Arthurs' Nisswa Wildcats and Quinn Parker's Merrifield Panthers.

The nucleus of Arthurs' Nisswa eleven includes such huskies as Ralph Hawkins, Billy Graham, Brainerd, Herb, Ervin and Mervin Anderson, Rocky Point, Gull Lake, Bill Moran, Nisswa.

The Panthers will enter the strife with Quinn Parker determined to bring the bacon to Merrifield. Quinn has let his beard grow for two weeks in preparation for the onslaught.

"It won't be a whisker pulling contest. We are confident of victory and intend to prove that absence from the gridiron has not dulled our stamina or fast thinking," was the word that came from the Arthurs' camp today.

Paul M. Jones, Brainerd's own "Grantland Rice," has been approached to referee. He is taking the proposition under advisement.

DR. COHEN CRACKS MAPLES FOR RECORD 257 PINS ONE GAME

VAN ESSEN AND H. OLSON ROLL 222 PINS EACH; E. M. B. A. WIN THREE

E. M. B. A. and Peterson Clothiers won five games from opponents at ten pins last night at Van's alleys.

Dr. A. K. Cohen set a new single game record of 257 pins. Van Essen and H. Olson rolled single games of 222 pins each.

The E. M. B. A. won three from the Brainerds while Petersons took two from Bys.

Tonight Alderman-Maghan will clash with Northeast Brainerd while the Lions Club will roll Mills Motor.

London—Heston airport spends little in keeping up the grounds. The landing field is perfectly level, with a rich growth of grass. Instead of mowing the grass by hand or power mowers, the field maintains a flock of sheep which goes over the grass regularly and keeps it trimmed at an even length.

Here's Honesty

Memphis, Tenn.—This may sound a bit far-fetched, but it is nevertheless true that a woman has sent a hotel manager here five cents to pay for the hotel stationery she used while staying here. She also took another sheet and envelope with her when she left. She sent the money to pay for the latter.

Here's Honesty

Memphis, Tenn.—This may sound a bit far-fetched, but it is nevertheless true that a woman has sent a hotel manager here five cents to pay for the hotel stationery she used while staying here. She is Mrs. M. Engle, of Harrisburg, Pa., and she explained in a letter to the manager that she used one envelope and a sheet of paper to write a letter at the hotel. She also took another sheet and envelope with her when she left. She sent the money to pay for the latter.

COUNTY WORKERS TO LAUNCH HOUSE TO HOUSE SALES THANKSGIVING DAY

Everything is in readiness for the official opening of the county-wide sale of double-barred cross Christmas Seals which will start simultaneously with that of the state and nation on Thanksgiving Day. E. R. Burns, of Crosby is county campaign manager.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Mayor Harry W. Creger today announced the following proclamation as an endorsement to the sale of Christmas Seals:

Christmas Seals come to us this year with a particularly urgent appeal. In the trail of the depression and the privations and worries it has brought to all our people, comes a threatened increase in the prevalence of tuberculosis. Already in some places in our country, a higher death rate is reported.

In the face of this danger, tuberculosis associations must increase their efforts during the coming year, and they are appealing for increased contributions to the seal sale funds that this may be possible. The Christmas Seal does not ask a great deal of anyone, but it is urged that everyone give something.

I am sure the people of our community will respond readily to this urgent appeal and that we will pass all previous Seal sale records this year.

and local directors in the various communities in Crow Wing county are: Brainerd, Brainerd Musical club with Mrs. W. C. Rasch as chairman; Crosby and Ironton, Miss Julia Sharp and E. R. Burns; Deerwood, Dr. E. G. Hubin; and Pequot, G. R. Feakes.

Holiday festivity of "the good old days" has been chosen for the design of the Christmas Seal commemorating the Silver Anniversary of the fight against tuberculosis. Pictured on the 1931 seal is an old-time stage coach drawn by four horses prancing in the snow. Aloft on the upper deck a passenger blows his horn to blazon Christmas greetings to the countryside.

Supplies for the local Christmas Seal sale have been received by Mrs. Rasch, who will have charge of distribution here. Included in the package were thousands of Christmas Seals, Christmas Seal bonds, brilliant posters and window cards bearing the health coach as it passes merrily along its way to carry Christmas greetings to all.

Posters and window cards will appear in store windows and billboards along the highway. The state this week, inviting everyone to enter the fight against tuberculosis through the purchase of Christmas Seals.

Seals in the towns will be sold by house-to-house canvasses, through the mail and in booths. In rural sections, where health habits are being taught in the schools through an educational program financed by the sale of Christmas Seals, the Seal sales will be conducted by the school children with the teachers in charge.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

Quinn Parker Grows Beard to Lead Panthers in Battle Against Dave Arthurs' Squad at Nisswa

The much tooted Thanksgiving Day Handicap, not a horse race, but a real honest to goodness football game, will be staged at Nisswa Thursday at 2:30 P. M. between Dave Arthurs' Nisswa Wildcats and Quinn Parker's Merrifield Panthers.

The nucleus of Arthurs' Nisswa eleven includes such huskies as Ralph Hawkinson, Billy Graham, Brainerd; Herb, Ervin and Mervin Anderson, Rocky Point, Gull Lake; Bill Moran, Nisswa.

The Panthers will enter the strife with Quinn Parker determined to bring the bacon to Merrifield. Quinn has let his beard grow for two weeks in preparation for the onslaught.

"It won't be a whisker pulling contest. We are confident of victory and intend to prove that absence from the gridiron has not dulled our stamina or fast thinking," was the word that came from the Arthurs' camp today.

Paul M. Jones, Brainerd's own "Grantland Rice," has been approached to referee. He is taking the proposition under advisement.

DR. COHEN CRACKS MAPLES FOR RECORD 257 PINS ONE GAME

VAN ESSEN AND H. OLSON ROLL 222 PINS EACH; E. M. B. A. WIN THREE

E. M. B. A. and Peterson Clothiers won five games from opponents at ten pins last night at Van's alleys.

Dr. A. K. Cohen set a new single game record of 257 pins. Van Essen and H. Olson rolled single games of 222 pins each.

The E. M. B. A. won three from the Brainerds while Petersons took two from Byles.

Tonight Alderman-Maghan will clash with Northeast Brainerd while the Lions Club will roll Mills Motor.

Cheap Help

London—Heston airport spends little in keeping up the grounds. The landing field is perfectly level, with a rich growth of grass. Instead of mowing this grass by hand or power mowers, the field maintains a flock of sheep which goes over the grass regularly and keeps it trimmed at an even length.

Holiday festivity of "the good old days" has been chosen for the design of the Christmas Seal commemorating the Silver Anniversary of the fight against tuberculosis. Pictured on the 1931 seal is an old-time stage coach drawn by four horses prancing in the snow. Aloft on the upper deck a passenger blows his horn to blazon Christmas greetings to the countryside.

The local Christmas Seal sale is a part of the national campaign which begins simultaneously throughout the United States on Thanksgiving Day and will continue through Christmas.

"This year marks the 25th year that such an activity has been carried on in the United States," explains a bulletin from the Minnesota Public Health Association. "Twenty-five seals, each with a different design, have been sold to the public at the holiday season since the organized tuberculosis movement got under way. From a small beginning at a time when everybody believed tuberculosis was hereditary and the equivalent of a death sentence, it has carried its message that tuberculosis is preventable and curable to every hamlet and cross-roads in the country, until today few people remain who do not know that rest, nourishing foods, fresh air and sunshine are both the preventive and curative agents for this disease."

15-Year Job

London—Agnes Guest is a stickler. For 15 years she has been sitting twice a week on a ladder in the Flemish room of the National Gallery copying Mabbie's painting masterpiece, "The Adoration of the Kings." She expects to take her three or four years longer to finish. She says that her copy is faithful to the original even to the finest flick of the brush, and hopes to receive $180,000 for it when it is done.

Deerwood to Conduct

T. B. Test for Children

Deerwood: Friday was visiting day in the first, second and third grades at the Deerwood school. A good many mothers and fathers were there in spite of the rain. The puppet show put on by the first grade was enjoyed by all and the two turtles and a gold fish in the second and third grades were the center of attraction.

The Mantoux tubercular test will be conducted here Nov. 30. Dr. Hubin, superintendent of the Deerwood sanatorium, will be in charge.

All the positive cases are requested to have an X-ray taken. The cost of the X-rays will be taken care of with the money obtained by the Christmas Seal sale. There will be no charge for this service and it is hoped all the children will be privileged to take advantage of this protection. Blanks were sent home to the parents this week requesting their signature.

The following members of the Deerwood volunteer fire department attended the Cuyuna Range Firemen's association meeting held at Ironton Thursday night: Ed. Rutger, R. R. Graham, Edgar Archibald, Eiler Hendrickson, Martin Torgerson, Fritz Enlund, Roy Barber, Louis Dressley and Chief E. E. Enlund. A good time was reported. The association went on record as being adverse to any ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks.

As the next regular meeting in January is the election of officers Brainerd, being more centrally located, was chosen for the next meeting place and Staples will entertain in March.

Herman Ringhand from east of town was shopping in town Friday. M. H. Hilyar ran a special bus last night for the high school children to the junior carnival and dance at the Crosby-Ironton high school.

Minnesota Funeral Costs Low; Less Than One Pct. Over $500, Survey Shows

The critic's popular football label, "It costs a lot to die" was exploded with a bang at a funeral directors meeting held in Detroit Lakes last week. Henry F. Dooley, Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota Funeral Directors Association, referring to a statewide survey in funeral costs said that less than one funeral in one hundred costs in excess of $500.

"Out of a total of 1,649 adult cases cared for by funeral directors in Wright, Renville and Yellow Medicine counties where the survey has already been completed, covering a three year period up to Sept. 1, 1931, over 57 per cent were for less than $250. Only 11 of less than one percent were over $500. This tabulation represents complete charges, including casket, embalming, use of hearse, etc."

"A popular conception that $500 is a bed rock charge for adult funerals comes from causes, including a desire to 'show-off' sorrow or reflect wealth by the bereaved families, a malicious propaganda by racketeers that have invaded the funeral business and a confusion arising from lumping, doctor, hospital, nurse and cemetery charges in with the funeral bill," Dooley said.

Far from being fixed, funeral costs vary widely depending upon the type of casket and vault selected. This selection is governed entirely by the family and depends upon their taste, their state in life and their means rather than upon any arbitrary dictum of the funeral director.

11-Year-Old Youth Flies Plane Alone

West Hampton, L. I. — "Ever since he can remember, Jack Chapman, now 11 years old, has been fascinated by speeding automobiles and airplanes. As a baby he clapped his hands in glee when he saw his father, Walter Chapman, drive a racing car by at dizzying speed.

And when he was only four years old he got the supreme thrill of his young life by flying with his daddy in a new plane. As the motor roared and the winged craft leaped forward, then soared like a great white bird, little Jack clung tightly to the cockpit—but he wasn't afraid!

But that was a thrill! When he landed he asked his daddy if he could fly a plane himself sometime, and of course his daddy, knowing the love of automobiles and planes was in his blood, said that he could—sometime.

Waited, But Not Long!
So Jack waited. Often he flew with his father, whenever they could come over to Suffolk airport from their home at East Moriches, L. I. His mother liked flying, too, but naturally didn't expect her little Jack would ever fly a plane until he was at least a full-grown youth.

But Chapman thought otherwise. Realizing his bright-eyed and quick-thinking little son knew almost as much about planes and cars as he did, he decided to give him benefit of instruction. After only eight hours of training he seemed to know everything about planes. His instructor, William Hunt, said "he takes to it naturally!"

Jack is only 11 years old, but since the new law making it illegal for unlicensed pilots to fly hadn't gone into effect yet, he could fly alone.

His father was so busy at his garage he couldn't come to the field, but his mother was there, a little bit nervous but confident her boy could do it, confident he would be the first 11-year-old boy in America to fly a plane alone.

Jack smiled and climbed in the cockpit. Cushions had been placed so he could reach the controls with his short legs. He didn't look the least bit frightened.

Made Two Flights
Then the motor was started, the propeller whirled—and Jack calmly grabbed the "stick" stepped on the gas. Down the field the plane roared, gained speed, then soared aloft. The crowd that had collected cheered. And 10 minutes later Jack came down and made a perfect three-point landing. Again he went up, flew and came down as well. And that was the greatest thrill of his life.

Once out of the plane again Jack was still smiling and unshaken although he admitted it gave him "a funny feeling" at first. Then his mother hugged him proudly, perhaps glad he was safe on earth again and knowing he wouldn't ever fly alone until he was 18 years old. The new law went into effect next day.

"I don't see where they get this stuff about flying being hard," Jackie remarked. "My dad is a swell flyer, and he taught me a lot. He used to be a racer, and he could make 'em step." Jackie is in the sixth grade in public school.

Tiny Fleas Earn Professor's Keep

Fort Worth, Tex.—The life of a lion tamer is easy compared to that of Prof. John C. Ruhle, of Germany, who is in Texas to select 300 choice Lone Stars and fleas for his traveling circus.

Extreme patience must be exercised in training these tiny insects, and a magnifying glass is used to train them instead of a whip used by the lion tamer.

The first thing to teach a flea is not to jump around, the professor explains.

"I place a piece of fine wire around each flea's neck so it can't jump. At the end of two weeks, it doesn't even try to. But the training is not finished. Each flea must learn to pull minute wagons and cannons, and not get stage fright under a magnifying glass."

So strenuous do these tiny insects work that at the end of one year they are so tired they die.

Now You Know
Holes in cheese are caused by the activity of gas-producing bacteria. The gas catches in the rubbery cheese and makes holes in it just as the gas from yeast makes holes in bread.

Beauty From Coast to Coast

Just to prove that feminine loveliness isn't confined to any one section of the country, here is a group of five girls, chosen for their beauty in states ranging from the Atlantic to the Pacific. No. 1 is Lillian McCarter, 20, assistant secretary of Legion Post No. 1, at Memphis, Tenn., one of the largest posts in the world. She is all dressed up to lead a parade and the boys shouldn't have much trouble following her. No. 2 is Betty Brown, niece of Senator Hatfield of West Virginia, who was chosen "Miss Brenan" at the beauty contest at Brenau College, Gainesville, Ga. She was declared by judges to be the "true, patrician type of southern beauty." No. 3 is Jane Arrington, 17-year-old queen of the Feast of the Palms at Pensacola, Fla., where she was selected as the most beautiful of more than 40 contestants. Miss Green, No. 4, will be the official swimming girl at the pageant of the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day. No. 5 is Lois Carter, Creek Indian girl, named queen of the Indian club at Oklahoma A. & M. College, Stillwater, Okla. She lives in Muskogee, Okla.

Even You Were Born a Criminal

Berlin—As all men were born equal, so were they born criminals, in the opinion of Dr. Franz Alexander, internationally-known nerve specialist.

"We usually ask, 'Why does a person become a criminal?'" Dr. Alexander explains. "To my mind, it would be more to the point to ask, 'Why don't all people become criminals?'"

"Everyone is born into this world with instincts and impulses that are not adjusted to society. If a child could realize the demands of his instincts, he would act as a criminal."

"To overcome this natural tendency, the demands of his instincts must be adjusted to the demands of society. This is a gradual process that is never completed. By that I mean that only one part of his personality ever becomes adjusted. The other parts remain criminal. The fact that a person is able to exclude these criminal impulses from his consciousness marks him as a cultured, civilized human being."

The Tree Tread

Geneva, O.—Pal, pet airside of Capt. J. D. Howard, tread a husky woodchuck. Up the tree after the animal the dog jumped and succeeded in landing on the same limb ahead of the woodchuck. The dog couldn't back away from the animal, and the 'chuck kept advancing with bared teeth. The limb was about to break with the combined weight of the dog and woodchuck when Howard appeared and rescued the dog by lifting it down from the tree.

Then the Fun Began

"If I were you," he said during a lull in the domestic storm, "I would have more sense."

"Of course you would," she responded sweetly.—Pathfinder.

Reunion Held at Wm. Gravell Home

St. Mathias — A number of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Wickman Tuesday afternoon, it being Mrs. Wickman's birthday. She received many useful gifts. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Young and little daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Tougas and Marguerite, Lorene and Steve Tougas, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Tougas, sons Morris and Marcel and little granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. V. Bougois, Mrs. Emerson of Sacramento, Calif., Joe King of Everett, Wash., Bill King of Seattle, Lin King of Oriska visited at the Wm. Gravell home Wednesday. Mrs. Emerson is Mrs. Gravell's aunt. They had not seen each other for 28 years, also her uncle, Joe King. They were former old residents of Little Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Magnan, Mrs. LeBlanc and Mrs. Anderson and children are visiting relatives in Bernidji. Mrs. Kruger celebrated her birthday Thursday afternoon. A large number of ladies were present. All reported a good time.

A parcel shower was given on Mrs. Dubois Thursday afternoon. A delicious luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gravell and sister, Mrs. Milund Smith of Corning, Ia., left for Auslee, N. D. Saturday to visit with relatives.

This Fish Story Has a Catch in It

Halifax, N. S.—Catching a swordfish by tying a line to its tail sounds like the theme of an imaginative fish story, but Captain Joe Emberley and Sam Clark can vouch for its authenticity.

Emberley's schooner, Catherine M., was out after halibut recently. The trawls of the crew were not bringing in many, and they were glad to land an occasional swordfish to swell the catch.

A 105-pound swordfish broke water at the side of Sam Clark's dory, and began to put up a terrific struggle to get away from the trawl. After a hasty calculation in which Sam figured that about $40 was slipping from his grasp, he dove over the side and tied a buoy line to its tail. Climbing back into the dory, he and his mate soon had the prize on board.

Meet Equal

Winnipeg, Can.—Bailiffs may loiter a lot of people but they met a tartar in Mrs. Jessie Cawchuk. After waiting 36 hours for her to return home so they could execute a writ of possession granted to her landlord, they entered the home through a window and found her in bed, fast asleep. But that wasn't all. In moving her possessions, they came across a trunk that was so heavy they had to send for reinforcements. When the trunk was finally moved to the street and opened, it was found to contain a quarter ton of sand and ashes.

Minnesota Funeral Costs Low; Less Than One Pct. Over $500, Survey Shows

The critic's popular football labeler "It costs a lot to die" exploded with a bang at a funeral directors meeting held in Detroit Lakes last week. Henry F. Dooley, Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota Funeral Directors Association, referring to a statewide survey in funeral costs said that less than one percent over one hundred costs in excess of $500.

"Out of a total of 1,649 adult cases cared for by funeral directors in Wright, Renville and Yellow Medicine counties where the survey has already been completed, covering a three year period up to Sept. 1, 1931, over 57 percent were for less than $250. Only 14 of less than one percent were over $500. This tabulation represents complete charges, including casket, embalming, use of hearse, etc."

"A popular conception that $500 is a big rock charge for adult funerals comes from causes, including a desire to 'show-off' sorrow or reflect wealth by the bereaved families, a malicious propaganda by racketeers that have invaded the funeral business and a confusion arising from lumping, doctor, hospital, nurse and cemetery charges in with the funeral bill," Dooley said.

Far from being fixed, funeral costs vary widely depending upon the type of casket and vault selected. This selection is governed entirely by the family and depends upon their taste, their state in life and their means rather than upon any arbitrary dictum of the funeral director.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Three Northwestern players, two each from Michigan, Purdue and Minnesota and one each from Ohio State and Indiana were awarded places on the United Press all-Big Ten team announced today.

Strong Combination

Although the Big Ten teams will engage in a series of charity games this week, the season was officially over last week and the selections were made on the work of the players in conference competition only.

The first team is a strong combination which compares favorably with any of the mythical all-conference teams of recent years, but after the pick of the crop was made there were few really outstanding players left over for a second team.

For instance at tackles the Big Ten had only two really great players, Jack Riley and Dallas Marvil, Northwestern's 220-pounders. It was necessary to award one of the second team tackle berths to a guard, so few were the good tackles.

Numbered among the players on the first team are four or five candidates for the all-America eleven. Outstanding of these are Pug Rentner, Northwestern halfback and greatest ball carrier in the Big Ten since Red Grange; Clarence Munn, Minnesota's versatile guard; Dallas Marvil, the tackle; Carl Cramer, a clever field general who lifted a mediocre Ohio State team into a tie for second place.

Manders Named Over Olson

At two positions, center and fullback, there is little to choose between the two players on the first and second team. Manders, Minnesota's fullback, was named over Olson, Northwestern's brilliant sophomore, because of his superior ball carrying. Miller, of Purdue, and Morrison, of Michigan, are the conference's only two outstanding centers and there is little to choose between them. The other players selected were standouts.

In the writer's judgment the following players excel in these departments of play:

Best passer—Rentner, Northwestern.
Best kicker—Olson, Northwestern.
Best defensive lineman—Munn, Minnesota.
Best offensive lineman—Marvil, Northwestern.
Best offensive back—Rentner, Northwestern.
Best all-around end—Moss, Purdue.
Best defensive back—Hewitt, Michigan.
Greatest player on a losing team—Zeller, Indiana.
Best sophomore—Cramer, Ohio State.

On the Sidelines

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—The seat sale for the charity game between Minnesota and Ohio State today passed the 20,000 mark. Brad Robinson, Gophers' end, will be out of the game with injuries.

Purdue Works for Wildcats
Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Purdue's hopes for victory over Northwestern rest with the Boilermakers' hard-running backs who have averaged 5 yards for each time they have carried the ball this season. The only game lost by Purdue was a 21-14 defeat at the hands of Wisconsin in October.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Reports were circulated here today that Glenn Thietzsch would not return as Wisconsin football coach next year, but no one officially connected with the university would confirm or deny them. Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, has been mentioned prominently as a possible successor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—The Michigan players are showing little interest in their approaching game with Wisconsin here Saturday. The players as well as everyone else in this vicinity wanted to meet Northwestern and have not worked up any interest over meeting the Badgers.

Charge Sing Sing Eleven Was "Framed"

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Now it can be told that the Black and White football team of the Sing Sing Big House has been "framed!"

The team played the police department eleven of Port Jervis, N. Y., a small city on the Pennsylvania state line, here yesterday and the police team won "by proxy," working an old, old racket on the trusting convicts.

The score was 13 to 0.
Alabama Pitts, Whitey Stokes, and George (Red) Hope, the kidnapping coach, who got into the lineup in the last few minutes, did their best but it wasn't good enough for the "Ringers" sworn in for the day to make them technically, if not ethically, police.

The railroaders, drug store clerks, insurance agents, farmers, textile workers, and high school stars who came down from the foothills of the Poconos showed 7,000 wildly cheering football fans how to work the football "racket."

FRENCH-CANADIAN TEAM, COM-BINING AFTER PARTNERS ARE INJURED, WIN RACE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—A huge Canadian and tiny Frenchman combined speed and stamina last night for four hours to win the Junior association international six-day bicycle race.

Combining Sunday night after their partners were forced to withdraw from injuries, William "Torchy" Peden of Vancouver and Jules Audy, 18-year-old French star, fought every challenging team into the board track to emerge victors by three laps.

The short bursts of speed of Bernhard Stubecke, German sprints champion, amassed with his partner, Brask Anderson, American, a total of 1,759 points compared with 1,322 for Peden and Audy but the stamina of the victors could not be met.

Four laps behind Peden and Audy, in third place, were Henry LaPage and Pierre Gachon who started a wild jam at 9:15 p. m. which resulted in Peden and Audy gaining three laps on the final. This lead was never wrested from the champions from then on as they met every challenge with fresh speed.

Peden and Audy covered 2,379 miles in the six days of racing. Cyril Praet and Pet Smessort of America finished in fourth place while Alfred Otevaire and Oscar Van Slambrouke, of Holland, finished fifth, nine laps behind the leaders.

CRISLER SPIKES RESIGNATION RUMORS IN EMPHATIC DENIALS OF OTHER OFFERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Herbert O. Crisler, head football coach at the University of Minnesota, today emphatically denied that he will resign at the end of the present season and temporarily ended a storm of excited rumors to that effect.

St. Paul newspapers claimed that Crisler had been offered two coaching positions at other Big Ten universities, namely Chicago and Wisconsin.

"I have not had any intention of resigning," Crisler told the United Press, "nor have I had any offers from other institutions."

One St. Paul paper claimed that Crisler was considering the offer from Chicago seriously and pointed out that it was from that institution that Crisler was obtained for Minnesota.

Crisler served as assistant to Coach A. A. Stagg at Chicago. He also starred in Chicago athletics before becoming assistant coach.

Bernie Bierman, football coach at Tulane, has been most prominently mentioned as Crisler's successor at Minnesota. Conflicting reports said Bierman would succeed Crisler as coach when Crisler concerned himself solely with administrative duties as athletic director and that he would resign to accept a similar position with another university.

Crisler is completing his second year as athletic director and football coach. He succeeded Dr. Clarence W. Spears as football coach and Fred W. Luehring as athletic director.

Berry to Captain Illini

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Gil Berry of Abingdon, Ill., halfback, has been elected captain of the Illinois football team for next season. He has been an outstanding player on a losing team for two years.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Hard work appeared ahead today for the Northwestern football team in an effort to regain its October form for the hard test with Purdue at Soldier field Saturday. A crowd of 50,000 is expected to attend.

Columbus, O., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Five Ohio State players were nursing injuries as the Buckeyes prepared for their invasion of Minneapolis Saturday to play Minnesota. The cripples are Vuchinich, fullback; Varner and Gailus, guards; Grady, substitute quarterback, and Rebenstein, end.

Twins' Love Affairs

Memphis, Tenn.—The Taylor twins, Leo and Cleo, met the Edwards twins, Martha and Mary, two years ago. Mutual liking strengthened into love and now they're to be married. Leo to Martha, and Mary to Cleo, at a double wedding. "Now that we're going domestic," says Martha, "I guess we'll live under the same roof."

Gridder Making Game Fight For His Life

New York, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—John Szymanski, Fordham tackle, was reported winning his fight for life today. The 21-year-old tackle was injured in Saturday's game with Bucknell. X-ray pictures showed no injury to his brain and no fracture of the spinal cord, but the injured player is suffering from a sub-luxation of the spine. Two other Fordham players, injured in the same game—Connie Murphy and Paul Howell—are recovering.

TROJANS AWAIT BIG WELCOME; RAMBLERS PREPARE FOR ARMY

CALIFORNIANS PLAN GALA WEL-COME IN TRIUMPHAL PARADE
THROUGH CITY

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Notre Dame's football team was back at work today for its last game of the season against the Army at New York Saturday.

Several of the players are still nursing bruises and bumps from the Southern California game, but all of them are concealing their injuries in an effort to get a chance to show they can come back against the Cadets after their first defeat in 3 years at the hands of Southern California.

Coach Hearty Anderson apparently has forgotten all about that agonizing last period in which the Trojans scored 16 points to beat the Irish, and is devoting his attention to the Army game, annually the hardest on Notre Dame's schedule.

Los Angeles, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Congratulations of city, county and state officials and the applause of thousands awaited the Trojans of the University of Southern California today as preparations were made to welcome the team home from South Bend, Ind., where it defeated Notre Dame.

A dozen civic committees will greet the team at the railroad station tomorrow morning, after which a triumphal parade through the city will begin.

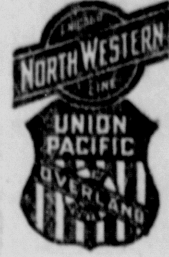

The city council ordered police and firemen to cooperate in making the homecoming "an event of civic celebration."

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile—less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such gruelling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs.

The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford car.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Three Northwestern players, two each from Michigan, Purdue and Minnesota and one each from Ohio State and Indiana were awarded places on the United Press all-Big Ten team announced today.

Strong Combination

Although the Big Ten teams will engage in a series of charity games this week, the season was officially over last week and the selections were made on the work of the players in conference competition only.

The first team is a strong combination which compares favorably with any of the mythical all-conference teams of recent years, but after the pick of the crop was made there were few really outstanding players left over for a second team.

For instance at tackles the Big Ten had only two really great players, Jack Riley and Dallas Marvil, Northwestern's 220-pounders. It was necessary to award one of the second team tackle berths to a guard, so few were the good tackles.

Numbered among the players on the first team are four or five candidates for the all-America eleven. Outstanding of these are Pug Rentner, Northwestern halfback and greatest ball carrier in the Big Ten since Red Grange; Clarence Munn, Minnesota's versatile guard; Dallas Marvil, the tackle; Carl Cramer, a clever field general who lifted a mediocre Ohio State team into a tie for second place.

Manders Named Over Olson

At two positions, center and fullback, there is little to choose between the two players on the first and second team. Manders, Minnesota's fullback, was named over Olson, Northwestern's brilliant sophomore, because of his superior ball carrying. Miller, of Purdue, and Morrison, of Michigan, are the conference's only two outstanding centers and there is little to choose between them. The other players selected were standouts.

In the writer's judgment the following players excel in these departments of play:

- Best passer—Rentner, Northwestern.
- Best kicker—Olson, Northwestern.
- Best defensive lineman—Munn, Minnesota.
- Best offensive lineman—Marvil, Northwestern.
- Best offensive back—Rentner, Northwestern.

DR. SAINSBURY MAKES PLEA FOR SUPPORT OF CHRIST- MAS SEAL SALE

Dr. William Charles Sainsbury of Fargo appeared before the student body Thursday afternoon and gave a very interesting talk on the human body and its care. He stated that one could purchase a gas engine and that after it was partly worn you could get a new spark plug and repair it so it would be as good as before.

"You can not buy spare parts for your body," continued the doctor. He said that the body you were given at birth was yours till nature taps you on the shoulder and demands her property and that you had to keep your body in condition without a possibility of getting spare parts.

The doctor mentioned possibilities of not getting a good body or the poor usage of the body which resulted in tuberculosis. Plenty of sleep and regular meals were important factors mentioned by the doctor, which will keep the body in a fit condition.

The doctor made a plea for the support of the coming Christmas seal sale. The returns are to be used to aid the recovery of tubercular cases.

Dr. Sainsbury is known by the high school students from his commencement speech two years ago and his cleverness and humor was expressed by his speech Thursday afternoon.

CLASSICAL VODVIL TO BE GIVEN BY BRAINONIAN STAFF

SPANISH SCENES WILL BE CON-
 STRUCTED UNDER SUPER-
 VISION OF MR. BURTON

Practice for the Brainonian vodvil is going forward with rapid strides and every indication is that a more polished and more developed program will be given this year.

A Spanish Don wearying of the routine of the daily grind demands entertainment. To please this high and mighty potentate a varied program of skits, dances, musical selections, songs and a play are arranged in order that our good Don may not be bored by too much of any one thing.

The stage under the management of Mr. Burton is to be arranged in true Spanish style. Lattice work, flowers, an dthe strains of beautiful dreamy music will do their part to lend a distinctly foreign flavor to the evening's entertainment.

Tickets will go on sale, Monday, by the student body. Remember the date Dec. 2, and purchase your ticket now.

MISSSES GRAHAM AND FILK TO GIVE PROGRAM WED.

HUHTALA, MAGHAN, PURDY TO
 GIVE SELECTIONS

The student body will be entertained by a program given by the Misses Graham and Filk tomorrow; it will be the annual Thanksgiving program.

Selections will be given by the Brainerd High School Concert Band. This will be followed by two Essay Groups by Dorothy Maghan and Ralph Purdy. The Girls Glee Club will give the next selection. Irja Huhtala will follow with a reading and the program will be concluded with singing by a Male Quartet.

High School to Enter Radio Speaking Contest

In connection with the launching of the sale of Christmas Seals, which is starting with a luncheon at the Ransford at 12:30 on Thursday of this week, the high school will benefit by hearing Dr. Sainsbury at school at 11:30. Those who heard Dr. Sainsbury give a commencement address two years ago will appreciate what a pleasure the high school has in store. A luncheon Mr. Dammann and Miss Flueck will make three minute speeches in regard to the health work in the high school.

The high school has entered the radio speaking contest sponsored by the Minnesota Public Health Association in which ten students from the state of Minnesota will broadcast their speeches on the work being done to check the spread of tuberculosis.

The Senior and Junior English classes under their teachers, Miss Mathis, Miss Walkup, Miss Oerting and Miss Olson are taking up this work as individual projects.

Brainerd Delegates Show Great Enthusiasm at Press Convention

On the level, the most thrilling thing of the whole convention was the following article that appeared in the headlines of the "Austin Daily Herald" Thursday evening.

Four students from Brainerd arrived here today just before noon by train. They are Harold Strickler, Hildegard Holm, Margaret Casey and Margorie Forsberg, who are delegates from the Brainerd high school. The four were so enthusiastic over the prospect of attending the meeting that they lost no time in coming to Austin when once they were granted permission to leave in advance.

All-District Mythical Eleven

First Team	Position	Second Team
B. Wygle, Brainerd	LE	Richardson, Aitkin

Gabiau, Brainerd	QB	Spurrier, Aitkin
Riddel, Little Falls	LH	Johnson, Wadena
Foster, Brainerd	RH	Peterson, Aitkin
Nickander, Aitkin	FB	Perpich, Crosby-Ironton

Many of the sport writers and critics of the country are now selecting their all-American, state and district eleven so we have selected what we think to be the best representatives of this district.

Aitkin, Little Falls and Brainerd, the three outstanding teams of the district, were the only ones to place more than two players on the mythical eleven. Every team in the district placed one or more players on the first two teams.

The ends this year were the most evenly matched they have been in years, making it very hard to single any one or two out. Askew of Wadena was a great all around player, being a pillar on defensive and an expert on the offensive. Bob Wygle of Brainerd was placed at the other end because of his speed and open field running. Richardson of Aitkin and Stark of Crosby-Ironton were also outstanding ends.

Dobervitch of Crosby-Ironton and Rosenmeier of Little Falls showed up well enough in action to nose out Towers of Little Falls and G. Wygle of Brainerd for the tackle berths.

Rude of Aitkin proved himself to be the best guard in the district this year by his powerful defensive play. Muehlbauer of Little Falls and Koec of Brainerd ran a close second but Koec being out with injuries a part of the season could not be put on the first team.

No one gave Brown of Aitkin any competition for the center post. Gabiau of Brainerd was placed at quarter because of his accurate passing and good field generalship.

The three most brilliant backs of the season were all fullbacks so to develop blocking and line plunging power we have moved Foster and Riddel down to halfbacks and left Nickander at fullback because of his experience in bailing up the line.

GAMMA TAU BETA FRATERNITY FORMED FOR JOURNALISTS

HONORARY HIGH SCHOOL FRATERNITY FORMED TO PROMOTE IDEALS OF JOURNALISM

Pioneering in a nation-wide program designed to foster and promote the ideals of journalism in the high school publication field, Gamma Tau Beta, national honorary high school journalistic fraternity, is being organized.

The fraternity, sensing the responsibility and the import which is inherent upon editors and business managers of high school publications, and the opportunity which their experience in those capacities offers them toward the pursuit of a journalistic career, will center its interest upon those editors and business managers.

It is the aim of Gamma Tau Beta to assist its members in improving the standard of their publications through presenting to them new ideas and suggestions and making available to them an inter-change of experiences shared in by their contemporaries throughout the United States.

Editors and business managers who through their publishing of high school papers of outstanding merit, indicate their adeptness in journalism, will be awarded a membership in Gamma Tau Beta.

Membership in Gamma Tau Beta will be carefully restricted to the executives of papers which possess distinct characteristics of merit. Applicants must submit to the honorary fraternity three consecutive copies of their publication. These copies will be reviewed by an examining board made up of experienced journalists and must be approved by that board before any applicant may receive the honorary award.

Each of the officers of the organization is a university graduate in journalism and has had active newspaper work.

Certificates of membership in Gamma Tau Beta will be mailed to the high school principal, who will be asked to present them to the new members at an assembly of the entire student body of the school, as a public recognition of their award.

Staff members other than the editor and business manager will not be eligible for membership.

YE EDITOR

Many of the surrounding high schools of the state have organized "student council" which is an organized body of 16 students representing each class who suggest and discuss improvements for the school or may aid in the disciplining of an unruly student.

The council is composed of two freshmen, two sophomores, four juniors, and eight seniors, who are appointed by the class supervisors who consider leadership, and character as the main qualifications.

The senior class may elect their own members from a group of 15 or 20 chosen by class advisers.

Members of the council are recognized leaders and since the opinions they form have a great bearing upon the students the student council must have industrious and serious minded students for members.

Many problems arise in our school life that go unsolved so why not organize a student council to solve them.

PLACED ON SECOND TEAM AS QUARTERBACK

Elmer Foster, fullback on the Brainerd football team was selected for the second team for central Minnesota grid team by coaches from 73 high schools in this territory. He has played fullback all season, but was placed at quarter by the coaches because of his defensive and ball carrying powers. Others placed on the first and second teams of this district were: Nickander of Aitkin; Askew of Wadena; Jackson of Little Falls; Riddel of Little Falls; and Dobervitch of Crosby-Ironton.

Hi-Y to Receive First Degree Ritual Wed. Nite

The Hi-Y meeting was called to order last Wednesday at 7:15 by the acting president, Parker Campbell.

A motion was made and carried that first degree ritual be given to all members at the meeting next Wednesday. After considerable discussion Rev. Ackerman of the Swedish Temple, was the clubs choice to help with the service.

Mr. Penrose gave a very complete and interesting talk on the Mavchurian question before the club. He brought out that Japan was not only at war with China but Russia as well. He pointed out very clearly the effect that this war had on the United States.

A motion was carried that the meeting two weeks hence be opened by devotional prayer.

FOUR BRAINERD DELEGATES ATTEND PRESS CONVENTION

CONVENTION AT AUSTIN GIVES SUGGESTION TO IMPROVE
 WEEKLY AND ANNUAL

The delegation from Brainerd was the first to arrive at Austin among the 400 delegates from the various schools in Minnesota for the Minnesota High School Press Association. Enthusiasm and interest was evident by the response shown at the first meeting.

The entire program consisted of six sessions. A number of interesting speeches were given, some by experienced journalists, others by noted educators, and school officials. Music was furnished throughout the entertainment by the various musical organizations of the school.

To break the monotony of the sessions, a banquet, dance, a trip through the George A. Hormel packing plant comprised some of the entertainment.

The first address was delivered by Miss Gertrude E. Skinner of Austin. The topic was on what "Amazing Work" journalism is. In her message she stated the three important points to be a good reporter, are: first—get the news, second—hang on to it, and the third and most important is to make use of it. A reporter should always be truthful and yet somewhat boastful. "To the newspaper life—To the newspaper life—To the newspaper life."

L. M. Harkness, managing editor, of the Minneapolis Journal, spoke on a few of the many problems of a city newspaper. He stated that in order to work on a city paper, a person has to be a lover of news and has to be curious. First one should get experience in a small town for Metropolitan staffs are made up of experts.

Probably the most important address of the convention was given Friday by W. L. Mapel, assistant editor of the American Boy magazine. Foundation Stones of Journalism was the topic. The point that he stressed most was the need of a college education at the present day. The following subjects are especially required for the line of journalism: English, history, political science and really most everything is needed.

The third session was made up of round table discussions which were explained by faculty advisers of the various schools throughout the state. The following subjects were discussed: Improving the Headlines, Interviews the Adviser to the Staff, and Teetun tips, and the Relation of Saturday morning was the close of the 11th annual State Press convention.

F. D. McIlvry, president of the Minnesota State Teachers College, gave an address on "The General Educational Background Needed by a Journalist."

The final address "Quill and Scroll in Minnesota" by Miss Louise Drage, Marshal high school, Minneapolis, who is the state president of this organization. This is a very exclusive organization and is now becoming internationally known.

One of the most educational features of the convention was the round table conferences of which "the annual" was very important. The discussion was in charge of Margaret B. Zittleman, adviser of the Polaris Weekly, a publication of North High, Minneapolis.

Problems of the year book from an editorial and business standpoint are always puzzling. She gave much enlightenment on various subjects due to her experience on a superior annual.

In this she compared the annual to a tarin well oiled well managed. With this comparison in mind—she went on to completely outline how a book should be laid out from the dummy to the press. She also gave many helpful points to an editor and his staff concerning the material to be used, the theme, art work and literary articles.

Miss Zittleman greatly urged the gathering of advertisement at an early date. She also advocated a professional men's directory, similar to the idea used by the Brainonian this year. From this interesting lecture and discussion we of the 32 Brainonian Annual staff will again attempt to profit by Miss Zittleman's advice and put out a bigger and better Brainonian.

The Red Cross contributions this year were exceedingly lower than those of previous years. The high school students gave only fifty-three dollars and fifty-four cents toward the benefit of unemployment and disasters. The contributions were made in the students' first period classes, each teacher taking care of the distribution of the pins. Most of the teachers contributed a dollar toward the fund.

DR. WILLIAM SAINSBURY ADDRESSES STUDENT BODY IN AUDITORIUM THURS.

DR. SAINSBURY MAKES PLEA FOR SUPPORT OF CHRIST- MAS SEAL SALE

Dr. William Charles Sainsbury of Fargo appeared before the student body Thursday afternoon and gave a very interesting talk on the human body and its care. He stated that one could purchase a gas engine and that after it was partly worn you could get a new spark plug and repair it so it would be as good as before.

"You can not buy spare parts for your body," continued the doctor. He said that the body you were given at birth was yours till nature taps you on the shoulder and demands her property and that you had to keep your body in condition without a possibility of getting spare parts.

The doctor mentioned possibilities of not getting a good body or the poor usage of the body which resulted in tuberculosis. Plenty of sleep and regular meals were important factors mentioned by the doctor, which will keep the body in a fit condition.

The doctor made a plea for the support of the coming Christmas seal sale. The returns are to be used to aid the recovery of tubercular cases.

Dr. Sainsbury is known by the high school students from his commencement speech two years ago and his cleverness and humor was expressed by his speech Thursday afternoon.

Teachers' Training Notes

When the Teachers' Training Department journeyed to Crosby last Tuesday to attend a joint meeting of the Crosby-Ironton, Pine River, Staples and Brainerd departments, they were fully prepared to give a good star demonstration. Each student presented a two minute talk on the best known constellations, on the zodiac, on the planets, reference to stars in literature, on the comets and meteors, in fact anything of interest in the heavens. Some very good maps were constructed to accompany the talks.

Crosby-Ironton played host at the meeting and conducted a tour of the iron mines as one of their contributions to the program. The Staples department presented an appreciation lesson in poetry, while Pine River gave a very clever health program. The city and county superintendents, each gave a short talk. Miss Swenson, state inspector of the department, was the guest of honor at the meeting. Miss Shinde, teacher of the C-I training school, presided.

LETTERMEN REPORT FOR BASKETBALL

TEAM FACES HARD SCHEDULE OF TWENTY GAMES

With a most successful football season completed, seventy or more boys at the high school gymnasium are starting strenuous practice under the tutelage of Coaches Dammann, Taylor and Melby for the coming basketball season.

On the shoulders of these "blue and white" boys is borne the burden of upholding the standard which the '30 team set when it defeated Crosby-Ironton to win the district championship, and only lost to the Moorhead Spuds by 3 points.

Though this year the five misses Marshall, said by some to be the best guard ever produced in Brainerd; Schuety, captain; and Patterson, there are six lettermen returning to form the nucleus of this year's team. Foster, captain, G. Wygle, R. Wygle, White, Larson and Templeton constitute this group.

The schedule this year consists of some twenty games, including tilts with all leading teams in this district. There will be return matches with Crosby-Ironton, Aitkin and Staples. The basketball season will culminate with the district tournament to be held on the home floor during the first week in March, the opening game to be played Thursday, the 4th.

Among the candidates are found some extraordinary talent that will undoubtedly be displayed some time during the coming season. Because of the success of last year's team, the huge populace of Warrior fans are preparing to make reservations for the state tournament in which we are looking forward to seeing Coach Dammann's five victorious.

ALUMNI

Violet Hoston '28 of St. Cloud Teachers College visited over the weekend with her parents.

Evelyn Loom '31 of the University of Minnesota was home over the weekend.

Lillian Soliday '31 of Duluth Business College spent the weekend visiting with her parents.

CLASSICAL VODVIL TO BE GIVEN BY BRAINONIAN STAFF

SPANISH SCENES WILL BE CON-
 STRUCTED UNDER SUPER-
 VISION OF MR. BURTON

Practice for the Brainonian vodvil is going forward with rapid strides and every indication is that a more polished and more developed program will be given this year.

A Spanish Don wearing of the routine of the daily grind demands entertainment. To please this high and mighty potentate a varied program of skits, dances, musical selections, songs and a play are arranged in order that our good Don may not be bored by too much of any one thing.

The stage under the management of Mr. Burton is to be arranged in true Spanish style. Lattice work, flowers, an dthe strains of beautiful dreamy music will do their part to lend a distinctly foreign flavor to the evening's entertainment.

Tickets will go on sale, Monday, by the student body. Remember the date Dec. 2, and purchase your ticket now.

MISSSES GRAHAM AND FILK TO GIVE PROGRAM WED.

HUHTALA, MAGHAN, PURDY TO
 GIVE SELECTIONS

The student body will be entertained by a program given by the Misses Graham and Filk tomorrow; it will be the annual Thanksgiving program.

Selections will be given by the Brainerd High School Concert Band. This will be followed by two Essay Groups by Dorothy Maghan and Ralph Purdy. The Girls Glee Club will give the next selection. Irja Huhtala will follow with a reading and the program will be concluded with singing by a Male Quartet.

High School to Enter Radio Speaking Contest

In connection with the launching of the sale of Christmas Seals, which is starting with a luncheon at the Ransford at 12:30 on Thursday of this week, the high school will benefit by hearing Dr. Sainsbury at school at 11:30. Those who heard Dr. Sainsbury give the commencement address two years ago will appreciate what a pleasure the high school has in store. A luncheon Mr. Dammann and Miss Flueck will make three minute speeches in regard to the health work in the high school.

The high school has entered the radio speaking contest sponsored by the Minnesota Public Health Association in which ten students from the state of Minnesota will broadcast their speeches on the work being done to check the spread of tuberculosis.

The Senior and Junior English classes under their teachers, Miss Mathis, Miss Walkup, Miss Oerting and Miss Olson are taking up this work as individual projects.

Brainerd Delegates Show Great Enthusiasm at Press Convention

On the level, the most thrilling thing of the whole convens Seals, which is starting with a luncheon at the Ransford at 12:30 on Thursday of this week, the high school will benefit by hearing Dr. Sainsbury at school at 11:30. Those who heard Dr. Sainsbury give the commencement address two years ago will appreciate what a pleasure the high school has in store. A luncheon Mr. Dammann and Miss Flueck will make three minute speeches in regard to the health work in the high school.

Four students from Brainerd arrived here today just before noon by train. They are Harold Strickler, Hildegard Holm, Margaret Casey and Marjorie Forsberg, who are delegates from the Brainerd high school. The four were so enthusiastic over the prospect of attending the meeting that they lost no time in coming to Austin when once they were granted permission to leave in advance.

All-District Mythical Eleven

Riddel, Little Falls	LH.	Johnson, Wadena
Foster, Brainerd	RH.	Peterson, Aitkin
Nickander, Aitkin	FB.	Perpich, Crosby-Ironton

Many of the sport writers and critics of the country are now selecting their all-American, state and district eleven so we have selected what we think to be the best representatives of this district.

Aitkin, Little Falls and Brainerd, the three outstanding teams of the district, were the only ones to place more than two players on the mythical eleven. Every team in the district placed one or more players on the first two teams.

The ends this year were the most evenly matched they have been in years, making it very hard to single any one or two out. Askew of Wadena was a great all around player, being a pillar on defensive and an expert on the offensive. Bob Wygle of Brainerd was placed at the other end because of his speed and open field running.

Richardson of Aitkin and Stark of Crosby-Ironton were also outstanding ends.

The three most brilliant backs of the season were all fullbacks so to develop blocking and line plunging power we have moved Foster and Riddel down to halfbacks and left Nickander at fullback because of his experience in baking up the line.

The Red Cross contributions this year were exceedingly lower than those of previous years. The high school students gave only fifty-three dollars and fifty-four cents toward the benefit of unemployment and disasters. The contributions were made in the students' first period classes, each teacher taking care of the distribution of the pins. Most of the teachers contributed a dollar toward the fund.

ADmits BEING MISLED---

The Minneapolis Journal has assumed a friendly but rather vague attitude concerning the purported treaty allegedly entered into between the United States and Canada governing the duck shooting season. But, obviously Canada has regarded the document with little significance and perhaps none at all judging from developments exposing the fact that only in one province in the dominion was the 30-day limit in effect.

W. D. Stewart, state game and fish commissioner, admits through the Journal that he was misled into believing that Canada had agreed to a 30-day limited season if there ever was such an agreement. He declared he had based his application to the federal government for a closed season on this belief.

As Everett B. Sherman, president of the Hennepin County Sportsmen's club says, it will be harder to get co-operation of American hunters after this fiasco. American hunters were willing to sacrifice shooting to help out in a serious situation and expected others to do likewise. Our hunters can hardly be called upon to recognize another such treaty, particularly if Canada is involved.

Truly, it is an unfortunate affair, but it might teach officials a lesson.

MINNESOTA FOR ROOSEVELT?---

Joseph Wolf, Staples, Democratic committeeman, would have the east believe that Minnesota and other northwestern states are strong for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to carry the hopes of his party in the coming presidential campaign. And, as a matter of fact, Wolf may not be far wrong. The tendency to jump out of the harness of any party has been widespread and, of course, it is the voter's privilege. But, never before has there been so much of it in prospect as for the balloting in 1932.

The Staples committeeman, according to advices, is reassuring eastern Democrats of his belief. He is reported to have told them that the name of Roosevelt is "household" in Minnesota. That may be stretching a point but it is refreshing to note his enthusiasm even though his belief may be a bit far fetched and premature.

Interviewed in New York, Wolf reportedly said that if the people in the eastern states feel in any way like the masses in the midwest, there will be no question as to a Democratic victory in 1932.

The Democrats have long had their eye on Minnesota. In fact, practically every national campaign has found the party threatening to break into this territory but without material effects. They believe that in 1932 things will be different. And, they might be as never before has Minnesota or any other state, for that matter, been ripe for plucking by any party as under present conditions.

TWO CENTS A MILE---

It is rather disconcerting to the lover of the beauties of nature to learn from a coldly logical authority that it costs him two cents a mile extra to enjoy those beauties along the narrow unfrequented dirt roads.

Not that the two cents a mile amounts to very much to such motorists, but the announcement does seem to disarm and discourage him nevertheless. It forces him to consider the well paved highway in contrast with the gravel or dirt road, beyond the item of cost.

He begins to weigh the joys of spinning over a smooth, wide pavement at a fast, yet comfortable speed, at two cents a mile less than it would cost him to travel over a rough, narrow road that is hard on the tires, on the engine and on the entire chassis and body. Two cents a mile is too low a differential in many cases where the country lanes are particularly treacherous.

To those who are out to get somewhere in a hurry, there is the further inducement to take the better road, beyond the two-cent a mile saving. Some would even pay two cents a mile more to be able to complete their journeys in the shortest possible time.

But to the nature lover, the man who takes his family out for a drive "into the country," who doesn't care where he goes so long as he can drink in the exhilaration of the outdoors, its colorful landscapes, its rolling hills and winding lanes, it's worth the two cents a mile difference to take these narrow roads where few other motorists intervene and where nature can still be enjoyed fully.

To be sure, more roads need resurfacing for speedier, more direct travel. But it may console the nature-lover that there are 2,300,000 miles of unimproved roads out of the 3,000,000 miles total in the country.

"GLORIOUS ISOLATION?"---

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, advocated in a recent speech that Uncle Sam maintain an army of 500,000 men, an adequate navy and "a resolution to sit tight and mind his own business." His formula is at least simple and easy to understand; the only trouble with it might come from an attempt to define just exactly what minding his own business might include.

Traditionally, nothing that happens beyond the seas is Uncle Sam's business. The fear of entangling foreign alliances reflects that feeling; presumably it was behind Mr. Gerard's advice. Yet it has become more and more evident, in recent years, that the nation simply cannot shut its eyes to events in Europe and Asia. Whether it likes it or not, the United States has a very direct concern in international affairs. Banker and exporter to half the world—how is the old gentleman going to ignore the doings of his neighbors?

It is refreshing to view such a picture as "The Spirit of Notre Dame." It is vastly different and yet incorporates those essentials of entertainment that it is particularly pleasing after the general run of pictures of the present day. Of course, love interest has not been entirely eliminated but it is camouflaged in carefully portrayed sequences that you don't mind the injection of a little of it even in such a performance. The wholesome character of the vehicle is strikingly omnipresent during the entire performance which is indeed gratifying to contemplate.

Argentina has appointed an official commission to investigate the extraction of fuel alcohol from corn to be used for automobile power.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARY HARKNESS plots to escape THE FLY, who she believes "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of old MRS. JUPITER, and later ran Eddie down and killed him. She is aided by BOWEN of the Star. Mary's fiancé, DIRK RUTHER, believes Eddie guilty, as do police.

BRUCE JUPITER returns from Europe with a woman friend and is ordered out by his father, who makes Mary his heir. Bruce vows to ruin Mary, who he thinks is a gold-digger. Dirk forbids Mary to see Bowen or continue the investigation. She goes to Miami on the Jupiter yacht, hoping The Fly will be at Miami to see his horse run.

She meets COUNT DE LOMA. De Loma is listed as the owner of The Fly's horse. MR. JUPITER has a car of the same make as that used by the murderer, but he explains it was bought for experimental purposes. He sends Eddie's I. O. U. for $15,000 in a pocket in the car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

HER frightened heart thudded in her ears till she could hardly speak. The operator's broad, maroon-clad back was toward her, but Mary saw with joy that he was young, husky and might be useful in a scrap.

"Did I startle you?" She hadn't spoken—only smiled, rather feebly. "Oh, no," she said quickly. "I was just—thinking of something else."

"I did startle you," the suave voice went on. "I'm sorry. Won't you let me make amends? Have some tea on the roof and perhaps we can practice a bit—for tonight!" (Practice a bit, indeed—Mary thought. That's clever of you.)

She said, "Oh, thank you, but I haven't time. Time to dress for dinner. I just ran down to—to get my mail."

Instantly she was sorry for that fib, for she was sure De Loma had seen her at the safe and was perfectly aware what her errand had been. Instinctively she clutched the handbag under her arm more tightly. Even a less interested and astute person than The Fly would have caught the gesture and been promptly informed that the bag held valuables. Mary realized this even as her taut nerves betrayed her into the give-away gestures she regretted.

The car stopped at her door. "I'll see you tonight?" she said and moved to leave the car.

In pressing his invitation, De Loma had stepped between her and the door. He was facing her, his hat in his hands. As if just aware that he was blocking her way, he murmured "Oh, pardon me!" and backed off the car. Mary stepped off, after him. It was the only thing she could do, although she realized with horror, even as she did so, that she was about to be left alone with the man there in the hall.

The elevator operator was about to close the door when De Loma changed his plans abruptly. He lifted his hat to the girl and stepped on the car again.

"Tonight," he said gallantly, and his bow was cut short as the door slammed and the car shot upward.

It was only then that Mary, slightly dazed by the swiftness of what had happened, looked about and saw Bates. He was standing at one side, apparently waiting for a descending elevator. Hands in his trousers pockets, a key ring jingling, a low whistle coming from his lips, he was apparently the most casual figure possible.

"Oh," Mary cried. "Oh!" She clasped the detective shamelessly about the neck and kissed him a resounding smack on either dusty cheek. "My hero! How did you happen to be there—you saved me—I'm sure he meant to get off, but when he saw you he didn't!"

"Just waiting for an elevator, believe it or not," Bates replied. "But why—what's he following you for?" Mary told him in a whisper. Not that whispering now would do the least good.

Bates looked grave. "You'd better stick pretty close to home base," he warned. "Didn't know you were getting that out yet. I'm getting the boys organized now. Was just going out to the yacht to see Hendricks." He stopped and chewed his lip thoughtfully. "But if you've got that here, I'd better stick around."

THEY moved down the hall, talking in undertones.

"I'm sorry!" Mary apologized. "But I thought he was safe in his room. And I had some other things to look up and it seemed like as good a time as any—"

"S'all right," Bates muttered back. "You were O. K. But you see I was right. He's on the prowl." "Oh, maybe it just happened. Maybe I just imagine!" Mary began.

"Tut, tut, sister! Believe me when I say he probably knows as much about your affairs as you do, right now."

"Now," Bates continued briskly, "I'll put you in your room and then I'll go summon the boys. We can have our little conference here as well as anywhere else—if we're careful about it."

The detective entered her room first and looked about. He raised the window, lay across its sill on his back for some minutes and studied the surrounding windows. There was a fire-escape which zig-zagged downward some distance away—from which it would be possible for a man to swing to the small decorative iron balcony which enclosed the lower half of her window.

Bates pulled his head in, flushed with his efforts, and brushed off his hands.

"Well, I think you're safe enough from that direction," he said, and inspected the bathroom which had no other door. "Now, lock your door when I go out and if you see or hear anything that frightens you I'll be right in the next room. I'm bound on the wall."

"Or telephone?" Mary suggested. Somehow the wall-tapping business sounded too Mata Hari—she suspected detectives of going in for theatrical behavior where theatrical behavior was not always strictly necessary.

"And have your throat cut while you're trying to get the operator?" he said. "Come here and I'll show you how to lock this door."

Now that the necklace was immediately in his keeping, Bates was a different man from the loungeing, lackadaisical "inventor" he had been impersonating for days.

He manipulated the locks swiftly, and Mary watched. When he went out she obeyed meekly—pushing all the various catches several times to make certain they locked. As a matter of fact, in pushing them about she became confused and when she at last felt herself satisfied with them, she had really succeeded in unlocking the door quite thoroughly.

Mary did not realize this for some time, however. She had bathed, done her nails and her hair, and had just wriggled into the Paris dress, when a tap came at the door. She did not answer. The knob turned slowly.

AS the doorknob turned, Mary watched in fascinated terror. She picked up the first heavy object her hand touched—a silver jewel box from her dresser—and waited, ready to hurl it if the intruder were De Loma.

The door opened and the Countess slipped in, looking backward into the hall.

"Oh!" Mary cried angrily. "You frightened me half to death!"

The Countess signaled for silence. "Let me have it, quick!" she whispered, darting anxious glances into the hall. "Bruce is in the bath."

"Have what? Oh, you mean the bracelet?" Mary asked. "Oh, my dear, I put it in the safe!"

The Countess' head jerked about; her shocked eyes fastened on Mary suspiciously.

"You don't think I'd leave it lying about, do you?" Mary laughed, mildly defensive. "In a hotel room?"

The Countess closed the door. The blazing eyes had narrowed. Slowly hands on hips, she idled forward until she was within a foot of the girl.

"So!" she hissed. "You think you will trick me, eh? I knew you would try that. Well, you will return that bracelet to me now, or I will scratch your eyes out! Do you understand?"

"Why—how awful you are!" Mary gasped in horror that was real enough. "What are you suggesting? Of course you will have your bracelet—in the morning!"

"Tonight!" Mary shook her head inflexibly. The Frenchwoman breathed heavily for a minute, during which Mary knew actual bodily fear of the tigress she had aroused. Then slowly the other woman relaxed.

A mocking smile curved the corners of her mouth down.

"Oh, nnn?" She rolled the consonant fearfully.

Mary turned indifferently to the mirror, touched her hair idly with her fingertips. Like a flash, a hand shot out and snatched the chain bracelet lying on the dresser. The intruder backed away swiftly to the door with it, laughing triumphantly. Mary threw herself at her but the other woman held her off, ripping open the talon fastener to plunge a swift white hand into the depths of the bag.

She lifted her clenched hand from the bag and held it behind her while with the other she made an awkward search of the bag's emptiness for the bracelet. Fanning with disappointment, she threw Mary off with a lunge of her elbow, and brought her right hand out to inspect the jewels she clutched. At sight of them her mouth fell open.

"Oh, oh—how beautiful!" she breathed, rapturously. "So that is what they are like—the Jupiter rubies! And they are yours—" Unconsciously she emphasized "yours."

Mary nodded. "They are mine." She held out her hand. "Give them to me, please."

The Countess jerked the necklace back out of reach. Her eyes were coldly calculating.

"Where is my bracelet?" "I told you! It's in the safe," Mary snapped. "Now give me those before I call the police."

Sulkily the other walked past her to the dresser, jerked open its drawers, searched hastily among the contents, slammed them shut. Blinked, she let the rubies fall slowly, musically, reluctantly, through her fingers to the glass dresser-top.

MARY picked them up, slipped them gently into their case again. Hungrily, the green eyes watched them disappear. Mary tossed the bag into a drawer. She raised insolent eyes to the other's envious face.

"What would I want with your silly bracelet?" she asked wistfully.

The Countess straightened. Her teeth came together with a click.

"Tomorrow, then," she said. "But no later!"

Suddenly Mary drew the surprised Louise back into the room, and closed the door. "Would you really like to own those rubies?" she asked in a tense undertone.

The other merely stared. She was too surprised to answer.

"I'll give them to you—the day you sail for France and promise never to see Bruce Jupiter again."

The Countess' eyes widened. Then she jerked her arm away. She laughed, shortly. "So that is what you want? Well, you won't get it. She drew off and her contemptuous gaze swept the girl.

"Why, Bruce wouldn't look at you, you—baby! If you knew how he despises you!"

Mary said patiently, "I don't want Bruce, but I don't suppose I can convince you of that so I won't try. All I want is to save his father's heart from breaking. And it will break—if Bruce marries you!"

This time the Countess could not trust herself to speak. She slammed out of the room. Mary sat down, spent and weak, and laid her head on her arms folded upon the dressing-table.

She would have given anything to be able to run away from the whole affair as fast as possible. But the curtain was about to go up on the last and most dramatic scene of all. Resolutely, she stood up and began to fasten the Jupiter necklace about her throat. How odd it made her lipstick look! She tried others but they were all too pale. The magnificent, sultry crimson of the gems brooked no competition. At last, with a disgusted gesture, she wiped the rouge off and left her lips natural.

The rubies should have the stage tonight—not she. It was their right. If The Fly were lured to his ruin it would be they, not she, who did it.

She lifted them, cradled in her hand, and kissed them fiercely. It was like a dedication.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

To many persons the stuffing of turkey and all kinds of poultry means quite as much as the bird itself. There is a special stuffing for each bird to bring out the finest flavor. It's really an art to make a good poultry stuffing, for seasoning and texture are both essential. A taste for interesting combinations, a choice of seasonings, a blending of ingredients and the proper proportion of liquid must form the foundation for all stuffings.

Old-fashioned bread stuffing forms the basis for a number of other good fillings. By the addition of oysters, celery, sausage, mushrooms, chestnuts and onions, the cook can change the plain stuffing to suit her needs. These stuffings with the exception of onion, are suitable for any variety of fowl. Onion stuffing should not be used with turkey or chicken.

DINNER: Cream of marrow fat bean soup, baked beef hash with minced beets, banana and peanut salad, baked apple dumplings, milk, coffee.

Turkey and chicken require a less high flavored stuffing than any other kind of bird. Duck and goose are good with the highly flavored stuffings as well as vegetable stuffings.

Crackers and rice sometimes take the place of bread and there is a potato stuffing frequently used with goose.

The size of the bird naturally determines the amount of stuffing required, but it takes at least a whole loaf of bread for a medium sized fowl and up to two loaves will be needed for a turkey. The bread must be at least twenty-four hours old.

Since plain bread stuffing can be used more generally than any other stuffing, the rule for it follows.

Plain Bread Stuffing

One loaf stale bread, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup melted butter, 1 egg, hot water or milk.

The egg can be omitted, but if the stuffing is to be served cold as well as hot, an egg is an improvement. Crumb bread coarsely, discarding crust. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add melted butter, tossing crumbs with a fork to mix thoroughly. Add egg well beaten and mix lightly with a fork. Add not more than one-half cup boiling water or hot milk and mix lightly. Cover and let stand five or ten minutes. If the dressing is not now as moist as wanted for serving, add a few tablespoons more hot liquid. Do not pack firmly in bird, for the stuffing expands during roasting.

The numerous variations are as follows:
Celery stuffing: Add two cups of celery cooked until tender in as little water as possible.
A crisp brown after removing from add ½ pound sausage meat cooked to Sausage stuffing: Omit butter and cases.

Oyster stuffing: Add one pint of oysters, using oyster liquor for liquid and adding one tablespoon minced parsley.

Chestnut stuffing: Reduce bread crumbs to one-half the amount and add one quart of shelled, blanched and boiled chestnuts. The nuts can be mashed or finely chopped.

For mushroom stuffing, add 1½ cups chopped and salted mushrooms.

Apples, prunes and raisins are used in combination or alone in rice and cracker stuffings.

The Staples committeeman, according to advices, is reassuring eastern Democrats of his belief. He is reported to have told them that the name of Roosevelt is "household" in Minnesota. That may be stretching a point but it is refreshing to note his enthusiasm even though his belief may be a bit far fetched and premature.

Interviewed in New York, Wolf reportedly said that if the people in the eastern states feel in any way like the masses in the middlewest, there will be no question as to a Democratic victory in 1932.

The Democrats have long had their eye on Minnesota. In fact, practically every national campaign has found the party threatening to break into this territory but without material effects. They believe that in 1932 things will be different. And, they might be as never before has Minnesota or any other state, for that matter, been ripe for plucking by any party as under present conditions.

TWO CENTS A MILE--

It is rather disconcerting to the lover of the beauties of nature to learn from a coldly logical authority that it costs him two cents a mile extra to enjoy those beauties along the narrow unfrequented dirt roads.

Not that the two cents a mile amounts to very much to such motorists, but the announcement does seem to disarm and discourage him nevertheless. It forces him to consider the well paved highway in contrast with the gravel or dirt road, beyond the item of cost.

He begins to weigh the joys of spinning over a smooth, wide pavement at a fast, yet comfortable speed, at two cents a mile less than it would cost him to travel over a rough, narrow road that is hard on the tires, on the engine and on the entire chassis and body. Two cents a mile is too low a differential in many cases where the country lanes are particularly treacherous.

To those who are out to get somewhere in a hurry, there is the further inducement to take the better road, beyond the two-cent a mile saving. Some would even pay two cents a mile more to be able to complete their journeys in the shortest possible time.

But to the nature lover, the man who takes his family out for a drive "into the country," who doesn't care where he goes so long as he can drink in the exhilaration of the outdoors, its colorful landscapes, its rolling hills and winding lanes, it's worth the two cents a mile difference to take these narrow roads where few other motorists intervene and where nature can still be enjoyed fully.

To be sure, more roads need resurfacing for speedier, more direct travel. But it may console the nature-lover that there are 2,300,000 miles of unimproved roads out of the 3,000,000 miles total in the country.

"GLORIOUS ISOLATION?"--

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, advocated in a recent speech that Uncle Sam maintain an army of 500,000 men, an adequate navy and "a resolution to sit tight and mind his own business." His formula is at least simple and easy to understand; the only trouble with it might come from an attempt to define just exactly what minding his own business might include.

Traditionally, nothing that happens beyond the seas is Uncle Sam's business. The fear of entangling foreign alliances reflects that feeling; presumably it was behind Mr. Gerard's advice. Yet it has become more and more evident, in recent years, that the nation simply cannot shut its eyes to events in Europe and Asia. Whether it likes it or not, the United States has a very direct concern in international affairs. Banker and exporter to half the world—how is the old gentleman going to ignore the doings of his neighbors?

It is refreshing to view such a picture as "The Spirit of Notre Dame." It is vastly different and yet incorporates those essentials of entertainment that it is particularly pleasing after the general run of pictures of the present day. Of course, love interest has not been entirely eliminated but it is camouflaged in carefully portrayed sequences that you don't mind the injection of a little of it even in such a performance. The wholesome character of the vehicle is strikingly omnipresent during the entire performance which is indeed gratifying to contemplate.

Argentina has appointed an official commission to investigate the extraction of fuel alcohol from corn to be used for automobile power.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARY HARKNESS plots to capture THE FLY, who she believes "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of old Mrs. JUPITER, and later ran Eddie down and killed him. She is aided by the BOWEN of the Star. Mary's fiancé, DIRK RUTHER, believes Eddie guilty, as do police.

BRUCE JUPITER returns from Europe with a woman friend and is ordered out by his father, who makes Mary his heir. Bruce vows to root Mary, who he thinks is a gold-digger. Dirks forbids Mary to see Bowen or continue the investigation. She goes to Miami on the Jupiter yacht, hoping THE FLY will be at Miami to see his horse run.

She meets Count DE LOMA. De Loma is listed as the owner of The Fly's horse. MR. JUPITER has a car of the same make as that used by the murderer, but he explains it was bought for experimental purposes. He adds Eddie's L. O. U. for $15,000 in a pocket in the car.

Bowen overhears Bruce and Louise quarrelling because she cannot explain where the diamond bracelet. Louise says it is Mary's. Bruce makes her give the bracelet to Mary, who discovers it was stolen from Mrs. Jupiter the night she was killed. Learning that THE FLY is in the hotel, Mary goes to put the bracelet in the hotel safe.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

HER frightened heart thudded in her ears till she could hardly speak. The operator's broad, maroon-clad back was toward her, but Mary saw with joy that he was young, husky and might be useful in a scrap.

"Did I startle you?" She hadn't spoken—only smiled, rather feebly. "Oh, no," she said quickly. "I was just—thinking of something else."

"I did startle you," the suave voice went on. "I'm sorry. Won't you let me make amends? Have some tea on the roof and perhaps we can practice a bit—for tonight!" (Practice a bit, indeed—Mary thought. That's clever of you.)

She said, "Oh, thank you, but I haven't time. Time to dress for dinner. I just ran down to—to get my mail."

Instantly she was sorry for that. For she was sure De Loma had seen her at the safe and was perfectly aware what her errand had been. Instinctively she clutched the handbag under her arm more tightly. Even a less interested and astute person than THE FLY would have caught the gesture and been promptly informed that the bag held valuables. Mary realized this even as her taut nerves betrayed her into the give-away gestures she regretted.

The car stopped at her floor. "I'll see you tonight?" she said and moved to leave the car.

In pressing his invitation, De Loma had stepped between her and the door. He was facing her, his hat in his hands. As if just aware that he was blocking her way, he murmured "Oh, pardon me!" and backed off the car. Mary stepped off, after him. It was the only thing she could do, although she realized with horror, even as she did so, that she was about to be left alone with the man there in the hall.

The elevator operator was about to close the door when De Loma changed his plans abruptly. He lifted his hat to the girl and stepped on the car again.

"Tonight," he said gallantly, and his bow was cut short as the door slammed and the car shot upward.

It was only then that Mary, slightly dazed by the swiftness of what had happened, looked about and saw Bates. He was standing at one side, apparently waiting for a descending elevator. Hands in his trousers pockets, a key ring jingling, a low whistle coming from his lips, he was apparently the most casual figure possible.

"Oh," Mary cried. "Oh!" She clasped the detective shamelessly about the neck and kissed him a resounding smack on either dusty cheek. "My hero! How did you happen to be there—you saved me—I'm sure he meant to get off, but when he saw you he didn't!"

"Just waiting for an elevator, believe it or not," Bates replied. "But why—what's he following you for?" Mary told him in a whisper. Not that whispering now would do the least good.

Bates looked grave. "You'd better stick pretty close to home base," he warned. "Didn't know you were getting that out yet. I'm getting the boys organized now. Was just going out to the yacht to see Hendricks." He stopped and chewed his lip thoughtfully. "But if you've got that here, I'd better stick around."

THEY moved down the hall, talking in undertones.

"I'm sorry!" Mary apologized. "But I thought he was safe in his room. And I had some other things to look up and it seemed like as good a time as any."

"S all right," Bates muttered back. "You were O. K. But you see I was right. He's on the prowl."

"Oh, maybe it just happened. Maybe I just imagine—" Mary began.

"Tut, tut, sister! Believe me when I say he probably knows as much about your affairs as you do, right now."

"Now," Bates continued briskly, "I'll put you in your room and then I'll go summon the boys. We can have our little conference here as well as anywhere else—if we're careful about it."

The detective entered her room first and looked about. He raised the window, lay across its sill on his back for some minutes and studied the surrounding windows. There was a fire-escape which zig-zagged downward some distance away—from which it would be possible for a man to swing to the small decorative iron balcony which enclosed the lower half of her window.

Bates pulled his head in, flushed with his efforts, and brushed off his hands.

"Well, I think you're safe enough from that direction," he said, and inspected the bathroom which had no other door. "Now, lock your door when I go out and if you see or hear anything that frightens you I'll be right in the next room. Pound on the wall."

"Or telephone?" Mary suggested. Somehow the wall-tapping business sounded too Mata Hari—she suspected detectives of going in for theatrical behavior where theatrical behavior was not always strictly necessary.

"And have your throat cut while you're trying to get the operator?" he said. "Come here and I'll show you how to lock this door."

Now that the necklace was immediately in his keeping, Bates was a different man from the lounge ing, lackadaisical "inventor" he had been impersonating for days.

He manipulated the locks swiftly, and Mary watched. When he went out she obeyed meekly—pushing all the various catches several times to make certain they locked. As a matter of fact, in pushing them about she became confused and when she at last felt herself satisfied with them, she had really succeeded in unlocking the door quite thoroughly.

Mary did not realize this for some time, however. She had bathed, done her nails and her hair, and had just wriggled into the Paris dress, when a tap came at the door. She did not answer. The knob turned slowly.

AS the doorknob turned, Mary watched in fascinated terror. She picked up the first heavy object her hand touched—a silver jewel box from her dresser—and waited, ready to hurl it if the intruder were De Loma.

The door opened and the Countess slipped in, looking backward into the hall.

"Oh!" Mary cried angrily. "You frightened me half to death!"

The Countess signaled for silence. "Let me have it, quick!" she whispered, darting anxious glances into the hall. "Bruce is in the bath."

"Have what? Oh, you mean the bracelet?" Mary asked. "Oh, my dear, I put it in the safe!"

The Countess' head jerked about; her shocked eyes fastened on Mary suspiciously.

"You don't think I'd leave it lying about, do you?" Mary laughed, mildly defensive. "In a hotel room?"

The Countess closed the door. The blazing eyes had narrowed. Slowly hands on hips, she idled forward until she was within a foot of the girl.

"So!" she hissed. "You think you will trick me, eh? I knew you would try that. Well, you will return that bracelet to me now, or I will scratch your eyes out! Do you understand?"

"Why—how awful you are!" Mary gasped in horror that was real enough. "What are you suggesting? Of course you will have your bracelet—in the morning!"

"Tonight!"

Mary shook her head inflexibly. The Frenchwoman breathed heavily for a minute, during which Mary knew actual bodily fear of the tigress she had aroused. Then slowly the other woman relaxed. A mocking smile curved the corners of her mouth down.

"Oh, no!" She rolled the consonant fearsomely.

Mary turned indifferently to the mirror, touched her hair idly with her fingertips. Like a flash, a hand shot out and snatched the chamois bag lying on the dresser. The intruder backed away swiftly to the door with it, laughing triumphantly. Mary threw herself at her but the other woman held her off, ripping open the talon fastener to plunge a swift white hand into the depths of the bag.

She lifted her clenched hand from the bag and held it behind her while with the other she made an awkward search of the bag's emptiness for the bracelet. Panting with disappointment, she threw Mary off with a lunge of her elbow, and brought her right hand out to inspect the jewels she clutched. At sight of them her mouth fell open.

"Oh, oh—how beautiful!" she breathed, rapturously. "So that is what they are like—the Jupiter rubies! And they are yours—" Unconsciously she emphasized "yours."

Mary nodded. "They are mine." She held out her hand. "Give them to me, please."

The Countess jerked the necklace back out of reach. Her eyes were coldly calculating.

"Where is my bracelet?"

"I told you! It's in the safe," Mary snapped. "Now give me those before I call the police."

Sulkily the other walked past her to the dresser, jerked open its drawers, searched hastily among the contents, slammed them shut. Blinked, she let the rubies fall slowly, musically, reluctantly, through her fingers to the glass dresser-top.

MARY picked them up, slipped them gently into their case again. Hungrily, the green eyes watched them disappear. Mary tossed the bag into a drawer. She raised insolent eyes to the other's envious face.

"What would I want with your silly bracelet?" she asked wistfully.

The Countess straightened. Her teeth came together with a click.

"Tomorrow, then," she said. "But no later!"

Suddenly Mary drew the surprised Louise back into the room, and closed the door. "Would you really like to own those rubies?" she asked in a tense undertone.

The other merely stared. She was too surprised to answer.

"I'll give them to you—the day you sail for France and promise never to see Bruce Jupiter again."

The Countess' eyes widened. Then she jerked her arm away. She laughed, shortly. "So that is what you want? Well, you won't get it. She drew off and her contemptuous gaze swept the girl. "Why, Bruce wouldn't look at you, you—baby! If you knew how he despises you!"

Mary said patiently, "I don't want Bruce, but I don't suppose I can convince you of that so I won't try. All I want is to save his father's heart from breaking. And it will break—if Bruce marries you!"

This time the Countess could not trust herself to speak. She slammed out of the room. Mary sat down, spent and weak, and laid her head on her arms folded upon the dressing-table.

She would have given anything to be able to run away from the whole affair as fast as possible. But the curtain was about to go up on the last and most dramatic scene of all. Resolutely, she stood up and began to fasten the Jupiter necklace about her throat. How odd it made her lipstick look! She tried others but they were all too pale. The magnificent, sultry crimson of the gems brooked no competition. At last, with a disgusted gesture, she wiped the rouge off and left her lips natural.

The rubies should have the stage tonight—not she. It was her right. If THE FLY were lured to his ruin it would be they, not she, who did it.

She lifted them, cradled in her hand, and kissed them fiercely. It was like a dedication.

BRAINERD

25 Years Ago

November 24, 1906

A. J. Starrett is on the streets again after a severe sick spell.

George Rardin, Fred and John Crowell and Jay O'Brien came in yesterday from a hunting trip in which they got the limit in the way of deer.

Martin Elde, living east of the city, is taking an enforced lay off because of having his arm cut on a saw. It is getting along nicely however.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Paine and Mrs. Goff, a sister of Mrs. N. M. Paine, who is here from Illinois, went to Smiley this afternoon to spend Sunday.

Rev. E. A. Allin returned today from a trip to Backus.

R. K. Whiteley returned today from Merrifield where he had been surveying on a ditch.

Mrs. D. M. Rudd returned yesterday from Iowa where she was called by the death of her father.

A enjoyable farewell party was given at the home of A. Opsahl last night in honor of his brother, Christ Opsahl, who will leave Monday for a trip to Sweden. There were about 30 present and the evening was spent with cards and music. Delightful refreshments were served and everyone enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

Alderman H. H. Baker has faith in Brainerd and evidenced it by his works as well as his words. He has just completed a brick addition to his block at the corner of Sixth and Maple streets.

Boy Cuts Off Finger While Splitting Wood

Gilbert Lake: Young George Spencer met with a painful accident the past week when he severed one of his fingers while splitting wood.

Mrs. Clarence Skillings left Saturday for Minneapolis for a few days' vacation with her aunt.

Elmer Robbins, a former Gilbert Lake boy, was to have addressed the Wildwood Sunday school last Sunday but failed to make connections. It is expected he will be there next Sunday.

The Farm Bureau unit met at Kreck school Friday evening with a fair attendance. There was a short program and lunch served. The speaker for the evening was E. G. Roth, county agent, on the topic of "Present World Conditions and How They Affect the Farmer."

The Beaver Dam P. T. A. have arranged for a jamboree next Friday night, Nov. 20. There will be charades, dialogues, music, etc. Then a 10c lunch is served. Afterwards there will be a fish pond, fortune telling and Christmas gifts and home-made candy sold. The pie social that was to have been given at the Kreck school Saturday evening was postponed to some future time.

We regret to have to record the sad news of the sudden death Saturday of R. S. Plummer, who was living on S. A. R. No. 19. While Plummer had been ailing for some time, his death was unexpected.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

To many persons the stuffing of turkey and all kinds of poultry means quite as much as the bird itself. There is a special stuffing for each bird to bring out the finest flavor.

It's really an art to make a good poultry stuffing, for seasoning and texture are both essential. A taste for interesting combinations, a choice of seasonings, a blending of ingredients, and the proper proportion of liquid must form the foundation for all stuffings.

Old-fashioned bread stuffing forms the basis for a number of other good fillings. By the addition of oysters, celery, sausage, mushrooms, chestnuts and onions, the cook can change the

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Baked winter pears, cereal, cream, cornmeal pancakes, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Beef broth with noodles, lettuce rolls filled with salad of cottage cheese and apple, gram muffins, milk, tea.

DINNER: Cream of marrow fat bean soup, baked beef hash with minced beets, banana and peanut salad, baked apple dumplings, milk, coffee.

Plain stuffing to suit her needs. These stuffings with the exception of onion, are suitable for any variety of fowl. Onion stuffing should not be used with turkey or chicken.

Turkey and chicken require a less high flavored stuffing than any other kind of bird. Duck and goose are good with the highly flavored stuffings as well as vegetable stuffings.

Crackers and rice sometimes take the place of bread and there is a potato stuffing frequently used with goose.

The size of the bird naturally determines the amount of stuffing required, but it takes at least a whole loaf of bread for a medium sized fowl and up to two loaves will be needed for a turkey. The bread must be at least twenty-four hours old.

Since plain bread stuffing can be used more generally than any other stuffing, the rule for it follows.

Plain Bread Stuffing

One loaf stale bread, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup melted butter, 1 egg, hot water or milk.

The egg can be omitted, but if the stuffing is to be served cold as well as hot, an egg is an improvement.

Crumb bread coarsely, discarding crust. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add melted butter, tossing crumbs with a fork to mix thoroughly. Add egg well beaten and mix lightly with a fork.

Add not more than one-half cup boiling water or hot milk and mix lightly. Cover and let stand five or ten minutes. If the dressing is not now as moist as wanted for serving, add a few tablespoons more hot liquid. Do not pack firmly in bird, for the stuffing expands during roasting.

The numerous variations are as follows:

Celery stuffing: Add two cups of celery cooked until tender in as little water as possible.

A crisp brown after removing from add ½ pound sausage meat cooked to Sausage stuffing: Omit butter and cases.

Oyster stuffing: Add one pint of oysters, using oyster liquor for liquid and adding one tablespoon minced parsley.

Chestnut stuffing: Reduce bread crumbs to one-half the amount and add one quart of shelled, blanched and boiled chestnuts. The nuts can be mashed or finely chopped.

For mushroom stuffing, add 1½ cups chopped and salted mushrooms.

Apples, prunes and raisins are used in combination or alone in rice and cracker stuffings.

Roosevelt Expresses Thanks For Wonderful Fall

Roosevelt—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Irvin and Joe Verner of Minneapolis were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coffield.

Those who called at the Edwards home Friday were Mrs. Archie Coffield and daughter Anna Mae, Frances Schelling, Edith Jonathan, Mrs. Floyd Coffield. Later in the afternoon Miss Cornish.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Britton and baby and friend of Woodrow called at Joe Edwards Sunday.

Mrs. Archie Coffield and son Earl and daughter Anna Mae and Mrs. Floyd Coffield were callers in Brainerd Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schellin were business callers in Brainerd Saturday. Miss Frances Schellin and her cousin Miss Edith called at the Coffield home Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Lucy Balow is staying at her home in St. Cloud.

Mrs. Coffield and daughter Anna Mae called on Mrs. Ernest Brand one day last week.

Misses Lorna and Bertrice Cooley spent the weekend at their home in Roosevelt.
